FEDERAL JUDGE POINTED TO NEU'S MURDER AS CASE FOR THE STATE

Faris, at First Trial of Gangsters for Mail Robbery, Observed From Bench That Killing Should Be Investigated.

COUNTY'S INQUIRY FAILED OF RESULTS

Constable Knight Declares He Was Satisfied at That Time That Egan Gunmen Shot Deputy but He Could Not Prove It.

At the first trial of the Egan gangsters for the robbery of a mail truck in April, 1923, which was not held until November, 1924, a reference to the murder of Deputy Constable Edward P. Neu on the Gravois road, on the night following the robbery, came out. Federal Judge Faris ruled the testimony concerning the killing was not admissible in the mail robbery trial, but observed from the bench that proper State officers should investigate that crime.

William Knight, a County Constable, was in the courtroom attending the trial. Following the Judge's remarks he told reporters that the county authorities would begin an investigation of the murder immediately. As has been told by the Post-Dispatch, two of the Egan gangsters, Roy Tipton and "Dizzy" Daniels, were connected with the robbery by the testimony of two witnesses, Walter Julian, proprietor of a roadhouse, who witnessed the murder, and Ray Renard, one of the Egan gang.

The fact had been established that the mail robbers used a stolen Cadillac car. Renard testified that Tipton and Daniels left the home of Max Simonson at Fenton, where the loot had been hidden, in the Cadillac car, intending to abandon the stolen machine in the city; that Tipton told him to see they got to the city limits with the Cadillac. He testified further that he drove alone to the city limits, then, turning back, he saw the Cadillac surrounded by a crowd, and fearing his associates had gotten into trouble, turned and drove into the city alone.

"Satisfied Who Did It."

Julian testified that the Cadillac was abandoned near his place at night and that the car was subsequently identified as the car used in the mail robbery. Before giving his testimony for the record he was examined in the absence of the jury at the request of the defense. In this examination he said two cars were speeding; that Constable Neu halted the rear car; that the forward car which was occupied by one man, backed up to the Constable; that shots were fired from both cars and the Constable was killed, and following this, the four or five men who were in the rear car got into the other car and they all raced away towards St. Louis.

When asked about the circumstances a few days ago by the Post-Dispatch, Julian said that it would have been impossible for Renard to have turned around and driven away after identifying the car surrounded by a crowd as the Cadillac without being seen, and that no such occurrence took place.

Former Constable Knight of Carondelet Township was asked by the Post-Dispatch yesterday what steps he and other officers had taken to apprehend the murderers of Neu, following Judge Faris' statement about the duty of the state in the matter.

"Well," said Knight, "I was satisfied the Egan gang did it. Not at first, but later on. By that time the Egan gang was in the hands of the Federal Government. Most of them were in jail and we were never able to get enough on them to get the Government to turn them over to us. It was like a lot of other police work. We were satisfied in our own minds who did it, but we couldn't prove it."

Neu Stopped Egan Gansters.

The Post-Dispatch has shown that the men Deputy Constable Neu stopped on Gravois road that night were some of the Egan gangsters, who had participated in the $260,000 robbery of a mail truck in downtown St. Louis the day before and that they probably had the robbery loot in the stolen Cadillac automobile which they had used in the robbery when Neu ordered them to halt.

Witnesses have said that another car preceding the Cadillac backed

LINDBERGHS NEAR ARCTIC CIRCLE WEATHER BOUND

Headwinds Delay Their Start From Baker Lake to Hunter Bay Next Scheduled Stop on Flight to Orient.

By the Associated Press.

OTTAWA, Ont., Aug. 4.—Head winds all along the 650 mile course to Hunter Bay held Colonel and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh at Baker Lake today and information received by the Department of Marine indicated they would probably postpone their departure until tomorrow.

At 3 o'clock Eastern standard time this afternoon the Lindberghs were still weather-bound at the little trading post where they arrived yesterday from Churchill. At that time atmospheric conditions to Hunter Bay were reported generally unfavorable.

Rumors that Col. Charles A. Lindbergh had crashed when attempting to leave Baker Lake today were definitely contradicted in the following radio message received at 3:30 p. m.: "Lindbergh has not even attempted to take off. Strong head winds prevail."

By the Associated Press.

CHURCHILL, Man., Aug. 4.—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh and his wife arrived at Baker Lake at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

The Lindberghs fly next over the bleakest country they have yet encountered on their vacation trip to the Orient.

When the wall of static which had cut them off from the world since shortly after they left here yesterday was finally broken to permit news of their arrival at Baker Lake to come through it was reported they had changed their announced route and would proceed next to Hunter Bay, 650 miles to the west.

The course from Baker Lake to Hunter Bay, which is on the eastern shore of reat Bear Lake and just 20 miles from the Arctic Circle, lies over a lake-dotted area far less hospitable than any the Lindberghs have hitherto traversed. It will take them over the bleak height of land, a ride stretching across their path about 20 miles west of Baker Lake.

At the present season, however, the dangers of crossing the height of land are minimized. The gales sweeping across the barrens in winter, which have set back skifitted planes in attempts to pierce through to the Arctic shore, will not be encountered. Reports indicate admirable weather prevails in that region.

From Hunter Bay, Col. Lindbergh plans a short 275-mile flight over Lake Step to Fort Norman on the Mackenzie river, leaving only a 350-mile down-river flight before Aklavik, on the Mackenzie river delta at the Arctic shore, is reached.

The Muskeg Limited, steaming south along the Hudson Bay Railway from Churchill today, carried three bulging mail sacks indicative of the flurry caused by the Lindbergh's stay here over Sunday night. The heavy mail sacks were largely packed with photographic film to be developed for the hundreds of amateur cameramen who induced the two visitors to pose during their stay.

RENO DIVORCE FOR WIFE OF CORNELIUS VANDERBILT, JR.

Private Hearing Before Judge Curler Lasts But a Few Minutes.

By the Associated Press.

RENO, Nev., Aug. 4.—Mary Weir Vanderbilt was divorced from Cornelius Vanderbilt Jr. here today at a private hearing before Judge Benjamin F. Curler. The trial lasted only a few minutes.

Mrs. Vanderbilt charged cruelty, and other than her residence witness, was the only one to testify. Her husband was not in court. Attorneys issued a statement which read:

"All property rights and interests have been amicably adjusted between the parties. A reconciliation was impossible. The matter of the divorce was submitted to the court for its determination. Mrs. Vanderbilt was granted an absolute decree of divorce. Mr. Vanderbilt decided to offer no contest or evidence and appeared only by his attorney. The details of the settlement and the court proceedings will not be given to the public."

It was reported that Vanderbilt had agreed to pay Mrs. Vanderbilt alimony in excess of $500 each month.

WIDOW OF EDITOR ACCUSES TWO OF $588,000 FRAUD

Promoters of Mine Stocks Said to Have Traded in Curtis Publishing Securities for It.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Aug. 4.—Philip J. Barnes of Glen Ridge, N. J., and Ernest Suffern, of Montclair, N. J., were arrested today at the order of Attorney General John J. Bennett, Jr., on a charge of having defrauded Mrs. Ella de Bevoise Patterson, of Red Bank, N. J., of $588,987.50 in a series of stock transactions.

Mrs. Patterson is the widow of William Patterson, formerly associate editor of the Curtis publications, who left her an estate valued at $1,000,000, mainly in stock of the Curtis publications.

Mrs. Patterson made her complaint last week to the State Bureau of Securities. Barnes and a companion interested her in the stock of General Industrial Foundation, Inc., a company formed for the purpose of holding Western Empires Mines, Ltd.

Mrs. Patterson, who is about 70 years old, charges she was led to believe the General Industrial Foundation was a successful engineering corporation, and she was induced to invest $20,000 in its stock.

Mrs. Patterson charged that subsequently she was persuaded to make Suffern trustee of her Curtis stock, but denies she ever gave him authority to sell this stock. Officials said investigation disclosed that all the Curtis stock had been disposed of, and its proceeds used in part at least to maintain the payroll of the General Industrial Foundation.

Among the directors of General Industrial Foundation, Inc., according to Assistant Attorney-General McCall, are Thomas D. Campbell, said to be one of the largest producers of wheat in the world; Dorsen van Bokkien, and Buckner Speed.

HUNDREDS OF FAMILIES FLEE BEFORE FOREST FIRE

Driven Out by Flames in Priest River Valley, Idaho; 200 Blazes in Woods.

By the Associated Press.

SPOKANE, Wash., Aug. 4.—Hundreds of families packed their belongings on wagons today and fled before a wall of fire that raced through the Kaniksu National Forest in the Priest River Valley of Northern Idaho. Columns of smoke rose 8000 feet, obscuring the sun.

Two hundred new fires broke out last night and today in forests of Montana, North Idaho, and Eastern Washington. Several of the blazes were reported to be incendiary. The Federal Forest Service, State services and timber protective associations flung about 2000 men into the forests.

REBUKES LAWYERS DEFENDING CLIENTS WHO ADMIT GUILT

U. S. Judge From Kansas City Comments as He Sentences New York Counterfeiter.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Aug. 4.—Federal Judge Richard J. Hopkins of Kansas, temporarily sitting in this district, told the lawyers in United States District Court today that in his opinion no attorney should represent at a trial in Federal Court any client who had admitted he was guilty or who was in fact guilty in the attorney's knowledge.

Judge Hopkins had before him for sentence Julius Miller, convicted of attempting to pass a $20 counterfeit bill. He sentenced Miller to five years in the Federal reformatory at Chillicothe, O.

Judge Hopkins said he had listened in advance of the trial to an admission that Miller was guilty.

"The statement that this defendant was guilty was practically made to the Court," declared Judge Hopkins. "Yet this defendant took the stand during the trial and perjured himself.

"This is a very serious case. The law prescribes 15 years and a fine as the maximum penalty for such an offense. Every lawyer who becomes a member of the Federal bar takes an oath that inhibits him from bringing any false or perjurious statement before the court.

"I do not see any reason why a defendant who is admittedly guilty should go to trial or why any lawyer should defend a client on trial if he knows him to be guilty."

NINE FINED IN GLASGOW FOR PREACHING ON THE GREEN

Member of Parliament Says He Will Go to Prison Rather Than Pay $15.

By the Associated Press.

GLASGOW, Scotland, Aug. 4.—John McGovern, member of Parliament, and eight other persons today were fined £3 each ($15) with an alternative of 20 days' imprisonment, for preaching on the Glasgow Green without permits.

The magistrate directed that they be allowed 10 days in which to pay but McGovern said, "I don't want time to pay. I will go to prison."

Some time ago McGovern was ejected from the House of Commons during unprecedented disorders when he raised the question of allowing lay preachers to speak on Glasgow Green. McGovern declared he intended to "continue the campaign for free speech" and when the courtroom had been cleared a group of men and women went to the green where several meetings were held without permits.

In announcing his decision the magistrate declared that if the public forum were used indiscriminately and without control it would defeat the purpose for which the green exists.

WILKINS DELAYED AT BERGEN BY SHIFT IN CARGO OF FUEL

Submarine to Continue to Arctic When Half of Oil Supply Is Reloaded.

By the Associated Press.

BERGEN, Norway, Aug. 4.—Sir Hubert Wilkins, who plans to go to the North Pole in the submarine Nautilus, was delayed in his getaway today when it became necessary to shift the fuel cargo, taking half of it off and loading it again.

When that operation is completed the Nautilus will head into the Arctic. The submarine should reach the ice barrier 10 days after leaving Bergen, including one day at Tromsoe and a stop for fuel at King's Bay.

TENNESSEE IS NEARLY BROKE

State Employes Likely to Be Unpaid on Sept. 1.

By the Associated Press.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Aug. 4.—State Comptroller Wallace states in a letter to Gov. Horton that he will be "compelled to withhold all warrants drawn on the general fund until such time as the treasury will permit the payment of same." This means that hundreds of State employes and faculty members of the University of Tennessee may not be paid on Sept. 1.

The balance shown on treasury books as of yesterday, Wallace says, would be virtually wiped out by payments of salaries to county superintendents.

BIOLOGIST'S VIEW OF LOVE

Sir Arthur Thomson Says It Is Safeguard of Life.

By the Associated Press.

OXFORD, England, Aug. 4.—Sir Arthur Thomson, famous biologist, told the British Hygiene Council today the safeguard of life is to fall in love.

"Love," he said, "has three notes—physical fondness which is indispensable; emotional attraction linked to purely physical attraction through appeal of beauty and strength; and a third note, often missed altogether, of higher sympathies in intelligence, purpose and ideals."

TOOMBS RELEASED AT STATE PRISON, SERVED 17 MONTHS

Man Who Wrecked International Life Co., Freed Ahead of Schedule Because of Good Conduct.

UNDER SENTENCE FOR THREE YEARS

In Statement He Discusses Penitentiary Conditions —Praises Progress Under Caulfield.

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Aug. 4.—Roy C. Toombs, former president, of the International Life Insurance Co. of St. Louis, which he wrecked by the removal of $3,562,000 of its assets, was released from the Missouri penitentiary today, after having served 17 months and nine days of his sentence of three years, imposed by a St. Louis jury which convicted him of issuing unauthorized stock of the insurance company.

Under the prevailing seven-twelfths rule, Toombs would not have been eligible for release until the latter part of November, but it was announced that extra credit was given him for extra work performed in the prison hospital.

A second three-year sentence, imposed by another St. Louis jury which tried him after his imprisonment on the first conviction had begun, was set aside last December by the Supreme Court, which held that the offense charged was identical with that on which the first term was based. A fine of $3000 was part of the penalty imposed in the first conviction. The records here do not show whether this was paid.

Tells of Business Offers.

Toombs arranged, before leaving the prison, to go direct to the office of Dr. James Stewart, State Health Commissioner, and to meet reporters there. He gave the reporters a typewritten statement relating to prison conditions and management. Dr. Stewart and Toombs were acquainted in Warren County, when Dr. Stewart was County Coroner and Toombs was a railroad telegrapher.

Toombs, whose business interests were in Chicago and Downers Grove, Ill., with St. Louis enterprises as a side line, said he intended to go to his mother's home in Winfield, Kan., and rest for awhile. He said he had offers of business positions, but had made no decision. He is 44 years old.

"In 1925 or '26," he said, "I could have sold my holdings for $2,000,000. What I have now doesn't amount to much."

Progress Under Caulfield.

Toombs, whose imprisonment began Feb. 26, 1930, said his study of pharmacy, in his earlier years, proved to be of value to him in his prison hospital work. In his statement as to the prison, he praised the "improvement and progress inaugurated by Gov. Caulfield."

"Many of the horrible practices of prison management have been abolished," he said, "and all will soon be gone from the Missouri Penitentiary. The horrors of a prison are caused by the inhuman treatment inflicted by certain officials, including guards. Some of these men, hardly worthy of being called human, make our prisons the breeding ground for every sort of crime.

"I entered the penitentiary," Toombs continued, "with a deep sense of humility and agony within my soul, not so much for myself as for my family, friends and business associates who had implicit confidence in my business ability and integrity, and who remained loyal. It is my intention to do my best to re-establish myself in the business world, not forgetting the road will be rough, and ever striving to vindicate myself in the eyes of society."

ROOSEVELT FIELD, N. Y., Aug. 4.—Joseph Patterson, publisher of the Daily News, narrowly escaped injury today when Patterson's amphibian plane turned over in an attempted take-off. The plane was demolished.

Frederick Becker was at the controls when the plane suddenly lurched to one side, dragging the left wing. Before Becker could right the ship it turned over on its back. None of the occupants, Patterson, Becker or Charles Sutter, mechanic, was injured.

VIRGIN ISLANDERS SEEK FOOD, GET OPERETTAS

Governor Criticised for Spending $4800 a Year for Director of Entertainment.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—Herbert D. Brown, chief of the Bureau of efficiency, today accused Gov. Paul M. Pearson of the Virgin Islands of flouting Congress and exceeding his authority.

In an informal statement Brown attacked employment of a director of public entertainment. He said the director was paid $4800 yearly to present Gilbert & Sullivan operettas for destitute natives.

Appointment of Pearson, Pennsylvania educator and Chautauqua leader, was recommended to President Hoover by Brown following his suggestion the islands should be transferred from naval to civilian direction under the Interior Department.

Pearson, Brown said, had surrounded himself with friends from his home, Swarthmore, Pa., by giving them jobs. He cited the director of public entertainment, Ralph Dunbar, and the director of adult education, Mary L. Flynn.

Brown termed appointment of a man to direct operettas in a community struggling to buy bread as "absurd," and added he was "distressed at the unfortunate condition" of affairs in the islands.

"I am particularly out of sympathy with Gov. Pearson's action in creating high-priced positions that were not authorized by Congress and in filling those positions with friends from his home town in Swarthmore," Brown said.

"It was through my interest in the work now being carried on by two Philadelphia Quakers in the Bureau of Indian Affairs"—Mr. Rhoads and Mr. Scattergood (Commissioner and Assistant Commissioner) — he explained, "that prompted me to look in the same quarter for a man of their spirit to take up the work in the Virgin Islands.

"I appealed to the Quakers in Swarthmore and Philadelphia and was assured that Dr. Pearson possessed the necessary qualities. I hesitate at this time to go into all the causes that have induced me to change my opinion about his qualifications. There is nothing that I have regretted more. I had much rather face public criticism myself than to jeopardize the welfare of the Islands."

Officials of the Interior Department have said civilian rule was just beginning to get a trial in the Islands.

Brown explained his reference to the Quakers by saying, "I wanted somebody with the missionary spirit."

Acting Secretary Edwards of the Interior Department, who supervises administration of the Virgin Islands, said today he would take no action on criticism of Gov. Pearson's official acts.

21 NEGROES IN BUS DIE IN PLUNGE OFF OPEN DRAWBRIDGE

White Driver and His Son Also Lose Lives in River at Georgetown, S. C.

By the Associated Press.

GEORGETOWN, S. C., Aug. 4.—A bus loaded with picnickers returning from a beach outing plunged from an open draw bridge near here late last night and carried 21 Negroes and two white men to their death.

Only one person, a Negro youth named Frazer, was known to have escaped. He said he broke a window in the bus and jumped to safety as the vehicle hurtled into the 40-foot water of the Sampit River.

The two white men who drowned were Warren Newton, owner and driver of the bus, and Olin Newton, his son.

The Negroes drowned were residents of Georgetown and Andrews, who engaged Newton, a farmer, to drive them to the beach for a picnic.

A crew of workmen, after laboring several hours with two wreckers from garages, succeeded about daylight in raising the bus to the surface. Nineteen bodies had been recovered today, including Ruth Brown.

Authorities said they were at a loss to explain what caused the driver to run the bus into the river. They said red light danger signals to warn that the drawbridge had been lifted for the passage of a boat were clearly visible.

A heavy barrier guarding the bridge entrance was torn away by the bus as it plunged from the bridge approach to the water.

A watchman at the bridge said he saw the bus crash through the barrier and heard screams as it struck the water.

EDISON BETTER, THOUGHT TO BE ON WAY TO RECOVERY

Inventor Persuades Doctors to Let Him Take Auto Rides and Walks Unassisted to Car.

By the Associated Press.

WEST ORANGE, N. J., Aug. 4.—Thomas A. Edison was thought today to be on the road to recovery from the sudden collapse he suffered last Saturday.

He slept soundly for eight hours last night. This morning he inquired of his son, Charles, about business problems.

Physicians granted the request of Thomas A. Edison that he be permitted to take an automobile ride this afternoon and the 84-year-old inventor walked unassisted to the car.

Dr. Hubert S. Howe, the inventor's physician, after a conference with Dr. Clifford Weston of Glen Ridge, issued the following bulletin: "Mr. Edison slept eight hours and had the best night so far. He ate his breakfast with relish, read the morning papers and showed evidence of returning strength and health."

Hundreds of messages of sympathy continue to arrive. Among them is one from Samuel Insull, public utilities magnate of Chicago, who said he was coming to see Mr. Edison tomorrow.

TWO ACCUSED OF KIDNAPING IN ATTACK ON JOHNSON HEIR

Warrants Charging Robbery With Deadly Weapon Also Issued Against Pair One of Whom Is Identified.

CAPTORS FOILED BY DISABLING AUTO

Son of Owner of St. Albans in Hospital Tells of Breaking Ignition Key in Struggle With Men After They Held Him Up.

Kidnaping, and robbery with a deadly weapon, are charged in warrants issued at Clayton today against the two men held in the abduction of Oscar Johnson, of 38 Portland place, on a St. Louis County road yesterday afternoon.

Their bonds were fixed by Justice of the Peace Lewis of University City at $100,000 each, or $50,000 on each charge. It is not expected that they will be able to give bond before their preliminary hearing, set for 2 p. m. Thursday before Lewis.

Johnson, who escaped from his two captors by a determined fight in which he disabled his own automobile, is recovering at Barnes Hospital from a severe beating with a riot gun and a revolver, which were found near the scene of his escape. He has identified one of the prisoners, Felix F. McDonald of Overland, as one of the two who drove him away in his own machine, robbed him and, as he believes, meant to hold him for ransom.

The other prisoner, Bart Davit, has not been identified positively by Johnson. McDonald and Davit are alcohol cookers, with stills along the western edge of the county, and have been arrested by the St. Louis police, in recent months, with Tommy Hayes, an active local gangster.

Henry Law Warrants.

The warrants charging robbery with a deadly weapon were issued under the Henry law, which provides a penalty from 10 years' imprisonment to death by hanging. Kidnaping, charged in warrants issued later, is punishable by two to 10 years' imprisonment. The Johnson case, because of his immediate escape, did not reach the stage where kidnaping for ransom could be charged. The latter crime is punishable by death, or by imprisonment up to a life term. Prosecuting Attorney Castlen issued the warrants. Paul A. Richards, a St. Louis lawyer, is representing the prisoners.

Story of Experience.

Johnson's resolute resistance to the two men, as he has since related, began when they tried to make him put on a pair of yellow sun glasses and crouch down in the front seat of his car. He had been willing to submit to robbery, but this order convinced him that kidnaping was the program. He is 26 years old, unmarried, and the son of Mrs. Irene W. Johnson, wealthy owner of the St. Albans realty development on the Missouri River, and of the late Oscar Johnson, one of the founders of the International Shoe Co. His story of his experience, as told to Guy A. Thompson, the Johnson family lawyer, and later more fully to Police Sergt. Dempsey, is:

"At 12:30 p. m., I was driving my 16-cylinder Cadillac roadster on Melrose road, having started from my mother's summer home at St. Albans to return to St. Louis, (Melrose road leads to Manchester road).

"About three miles from St. Alban's, and 30 miles out from St. Louis, at the foot of Melrose hill, while running slowly because of a curve ahead, I was stopped by two men, one of whom carried a shotgun, and the other a revolver. They were standing by a Ford coupe.

He Gave Them Mouey.

"The man with the shotgun was about 30 years old, 6 feet tall, weighing 180-190 pounds, with light hair and complexion, and wore glasses. The one with a revolver was about 32, 5 feet 8, 160 pounds, with dark hair, and had a handkerchief over his face. I can't describe their clothes.

"They ordered me to stop, and I did, and got out of my car. 'What do you want?' I asked them. 'Here's my money,' I said, 'and you can take the car.' I thought then it was a holdup.

"One of them said, 'Get back in

3 KILLED WHEN NEGRO MOB FIGHTS POLICE IN CHICAGO

Clash Follows Protest Over Eviction of Woman From Flat for Nonpayment of Rent.

RACE LEADERS LAY TROUBLE TO REDS

Court Bailiff Agrees to Delay All Dispossess Orders for Present—Mayor to Establish Relief Fund.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Aug. 4.—Communists were blamed by police today for a brief riot on Chicago's South Side, in which three Negroes were slain and one was seriously wounded. Three policemen, who helped put down the disorders, were injured.

Many of the participants were arrested. Three were said by police to have been ringleaders.

Steps were taken by officials, including Mayor Cermak and Corporation Counsel Sexton, to prevent a repetition of the disorder which began late yesterday afternoon, when several hundred Negroes started a demonstration in protest against the eviction of a Negro family for nonpayment of rent.

A crowd of Negroes, estimated by police at 1000, shouted defiance as two court bailiffs started to move to the street the household furnishing of Dina Gross from a flat at Dearborn and Fiftieth. The bailiffs telephoned for police. Cries of "Put that furniture back," and "We want something to eat," were heard, and some of the crowd started to put the furniture back.

A patrol wagon, manned by Policemen Fred Graham, a Negro, Martin Ernst and John McFadden, arrived, but the three were surrounded by the rioters, many of whom were armed with knives, clubs and pistols. Ernst suffered a scull fracture. His companions were cut. When reserves, including Sergt. Henry Lyons, came to their aid, a Negro pulled Lyons' pistol from his holster and threatened to shoot. As he did so, Policeman William Jordan fired and the Negro fell dead. A few minutes later Lyons, who had recovered his pistol, killed a Negro who was firing at Jordan from a nearby doorway.

The manner of the third man's death could not be learned, and only one of the three dead was identified. He was John O'Neill, about 30 years old.

Police Attacked in Store.

While the fight was at its height a group of policemen, led by Sergt. James McMahon, became separated from the main body of the reinforcements, and were forced to take refuge in a small store in the same block. They were attacked by a hundred men, some of whom broke the store windows with bricks. Shots were also fired at the policemen, but they were able to defend themselves without injury until help arrived.

Mayor Cermak was at Little Current, Ont., but when told of the disorder, ordered that no more families be evicted without notification being given to him and to an organized charity. He said he would establish a special fund to aid evicted families. At the same time, Corporation Counsel Sexton met Negro leaders to discuss means of averting trouble. He said he was surprised when told by some of the Negroes that there were between 30,000 and 50,000 Negro Communists in Chicago. He called another meeting for today, and said he would try to take the Communist activities up with United States District Attorney Johnson.

For several weeks, the police disclosed, special details have been kept in the Negro district because of frequent minor disorders resulting from the eviction of Negroes, and Communists have been holding meetings in Washington Park nightly. Communists gathered there last night, but no disorder developed.

Eviction Orders Delayed.

Mayor Cermak ordered a conference of police officials, his cabinet and leaders of the Negro race, at which it was agreed that there was no antagonism between the races and that the trouble was due solely to Communistic propaganda. The arrest of Lovett Fort-Whiteman, a Negro and former student in a Soviet school in Russia, was requested. Meanwhile it was agreed that Al Horan, bailiff of the Municipal Court, hold up all eviction orders for the present.

Yesterday's riot was the third in Chicago in recent years in which Negroes were involved. In 1919 15 white persons and 23 Negroes were killed in race riots. In 1920 two white men and several Negroes lost their lives in disorders which resulted from a demonstration by a Negro "freedom" cult.

that car.' I obeyed, and they got in, on either side of me.

"'We're not going to hurt you,' the same man then said, 'if you do what you are told to.' He started the car, in the same direction I had been going, and the other man handed me the dark glasses, and said, 'Put them on, and stick your head under the dashboard.'

"I said, 'I will not,' and I then and there made up my mind not to go with them any farther.

"The man put the glasses on me, and I pushed them off, then he shoved them on again. I struggled as we rode along, and kicked until I managed to smash the ignition and break the key, stopping the car suddenly.

He Calls for "Help."

"We all piled out into the road, I resisting them the best I could, and they beating me with their weapons on the head and face, until I almost lost consciousness.

"A machine passed and I called out 'Help!' Then the men left me. The last thing the two did to me was to take my black leather billfold, with initials O. J. on it, and containing $70; my gold pencil and a small notebook.

"I walked about a mile, through a cornfield, to the farmhouse of Eugene Gryers, and two men working on the farm drove me to Barnes Hospital, arriving at 2:30."

Within St. Louis County.

The place where Johnson's car was stopped and he was taken prisoner, as located by him, is just within the St. Louis County boundary. Mrs. Johnson's St. Albans estate is in Franklin County. However, the struggle along the road and the robbery unquestionably took place in St. Louis County, and that county will have full jurisdiction in the case.

Johnson's injuries were found to be four scalp wounds, two wounds of the lower jaw, and three broken or loosened teeth. He will remain in the hospital several days.

One of the men who drove Johnson to the hospital was Harvey White of Alton. As he drove back toward the farm he and a party of county officers looked for the abductors of Johnson, whom Johnson had described to White. On a side road, about three miles from Manchester road, and about a mile from the cornfield where Johnson escaped, the deputies arrested McDonald and Davit, who were walking along the road, "looking for a lost bird dog."

Deputy Recognized Pair.

At Clayton, Deputy Sheriff Willmann recognized the pair as "alky" cookers, arrested several times in the county for their work at various stills. "We were cooking alcohol out there," they told Willmann, "and they picked us up just because we happened to be walking through the woods." McDonald said he lived at 3526 Dix avenue, Overland, and Davit's address was given as 107 Naylor avenue, Pine Lawn. They are 28 and 26 years old.

White and Leo Stern said the prisoners resembled two men whom they saw leaving the cornfield, near the scene of Johnson's escape, before White and Stern knew of the attack on Johnson. They did not see the men's faces, at that time, well enough to make a complete identification. The men were taken to Barnes Hospital, where Johnson identified McDonald.

Meanwhile, a search of the cornfield resulted in the finding, in a ravine of the equipment hidden by the departing captors of Johnson. The articles found were the riot gun, loaded and with a stain on the barrel caused by the beating of Johnson; a .38-caliber blue steel revolver, also loaded; two new black raincoats, a white handkerchief, a pair of yellow cotton gloves and the yellow glasses of the kind sold in drug stores for 50 or 75 cents, and used by many motorists to soften the sun's glare. The glasses were not taped or otherwise specially prepared.

Chief of Police Gerk, as soon as he heard of the abduction of Johnson, connected it with a series of reports, which reached him in the last few days, that Tommy Hayes was back in or near St. Louis. Hayes, a St. Louis gangster with a long police record, was arrested in a raid made by Chicago officers in East St. Louis May 8, and was taken with five others to Chicago. Attempts to identify him in several Chicago cases failed, and Hayes was released. The police here heard soon afterward that he had been shot at by some of his former pals, and had left St. Louis, going, according to one report, to the Republic of Honduras, in Central America.

Gerk's Order on Hayes.

Chief Gerk at 5 p. m. yesterday issued this order, which was broadcast to all stations:

"I am reliably informed that Tommy Hayes, well-known gangster, has two out-of-town ex-convicts riding around in St. Louis county. They may come through St. Louis. These men are dangerous. All officers must be on the lookout for and arrest these men."

The arrest of McDonald and Davit had taken place before Gerk's order went out. They were arrested by Deputy Sheriff Henry Krull of St. Louis County, Deputy Sheriff D. E. Adams of Franklin County and Deputy Constable Mike Hance of Meramec Township.

"Brave Fight," Says Chief.

Police records show that McDonald and Davit were arrested with Hayes and a fourth man, in the inquiry of St. Louis and county officers into the robbery of the First National Bank of St. Charles, Jan. 13. All were released for lack of convicting evidence. Seven other arrests of McDonald by the police are shown.

Johnson's resistance to his captors was seen from the Melrose store as the car passed the store, before he succeeded in disabling the ignition. George M. Berry, St. Louis automobile dealer, who drove along Melrose road and saw Johnson struggling with the men, telephoned from the store to the Sheriff's office at Clayton. He did not recognize Johnson in the roadside fight.

Chief of Police Gerk said he admired the courage Johnson exhibited in resisting his abductors. "It was a brave fight," Gerk said. "Those thugs probably would have killed him at the drop of a hat if they thought they could get away with it."

GREEN SUGGESTS HOOVER CALL ECONOMIC CONFERENCE

By the Associated Press.

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., Aug. 4. —William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, today proposed that President Hoover either call a conference of economists in an effort to remedy employment conditions or admit "the present economic structure of the country is an absolute failure."

Green spoke at the forty-sixth annual convention of the Massachusetts Federation of Labor. He outlined organized labor's remedy for the situation, including the five-day week, maintenance of the present wage scale and expenditure of Government monies for public works. He warned of "a rebellion of the army of unemployed which will upset our present political system unless industry and government co-operate with labor."

RAIL EXECUTIVES REJECT PLAN FOR JOB CONFERENCE

Decline Meeting With Labor Leaders on Ground Each Line Should Deal With Problem.

By the Associated Press.

CLEVELAND, O., Aug. 4.—Executives of 21 railroad labor organizations today sought a way out from an impasse with the railroad owners in the efforts of the labor group to solve the problem of caring for 350,000 unemployed railroad workers.

The impasse was disclosed yesterday when the association of railway executives refused to hold a conference with the labor organizations to discuss unemployment and related problems. The labor groups in turn refused a counter-proposal to deal with the individual carriers separately.

David B. Robertson, president of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, said the labor executives will decide within a week or two what their next step will be.

The refusal of the railway executives to join in a general conference was explained from Washington by Alfred P. Thom, general counsel of the Association of Railway Executives, with a statement that the articles of the association forbid it to consider labor problems; that they should be handled directly with the individual carriers.

Much has been done already, Thom said, for relief of the unemployed by the management of individual carriers through joint co-operative action with employes.

Railroad labor leaders in Cleveland said a general conference was preferable; that the labor problems were nearly the same in all of the railroad systems.

Robertson said that unless something was done soon for their relief, the 350,000 railroad unemployed will face a "very severe winter." At present they are being helped by funds contributed by employed fellow workers, but these funds are nearly exhausted, he said.

The proposal for the general conference was made by the brotherhoods several months ago, with the suggestion that it also might discuss the regulation of highway, waterway and pipe-line transportation services "to eliminate unfair competition" with the railroads. Unemployment discussion was to have centered around the question of a six-hour day and a five-day week.

MRS. HENDERSON'S SECRETARY SURRENDERS DEED TO HOUSE

Japanese Received Nicaraguan Legation in 1930; to Receive $100,000 by Will.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—Jesse S. Shima, Japanese secretary to the late Mrs. Mary F. Henderson, today relinquished title to the Nicaraguan legation conveyed to him in 1930 by the wealthy widow.

Shima executed a deed for the property, valued at $100,000, to George E. Edelin, trustee for the estate. It was conveyed to Shima for $100. The secretary in a statement said he took the property at the insistence of Mrs. Henderson and never meant to keep it.

Shima was left $100,000 cash and $100,000 in trust in the last of the six wills made by the widow of the late John B. Henderson, former Senator from Missouri.

A legal controversy over the conflicting wills is shaping. Charges have been made that Mrs. Henderson was of unsound mind and that she was influenced in the final disposition of the Henderson millions by Shima.

REDUCTION IN FORD EMPLOYES SAID TO BE ONLY FOR MONTH

Detroit News Asserts Force Will Be Increased and Improved Model Out in September.

By the Associated Press.

DETROIT, Aug. 4.—The Detroit News, commenting on a recently-announced reduction of the employment roster of the Ford Motor Co., says that an official of the company has reported that the reduction is temporary in preparation for an "improved model" in September, and that not less than 30,000 men will be continually employed during the current month.

The News says that the daily payroll of the Ford company during the current month will approximate $500,000, and that a September schedule calling for 100,000 units of the "improved model" has been issued. The paper says that no change is expected in the motor design of the automobile.

Official figures on Ford employment were unavailable but the company is said to normally employ about 100,000 men. The company announced the suspension of manufacturing activities during August and stated that only a skeleton force would be kept at Detroit and other assembly plants. It was stated that 11 of the 36 assembly plants throughout the country would continue to operate.

$207,000 DETROIT RELIEF FUND THIEF GETS PRISON TERM

A. F. Lewis Sentenced for From Seven and a Half to Ten Years in Penitentiary.

By the Associated Press.

DETROIT, Mich., Aug. 4.—Alex F. Lewis, former welfare department clerk who defrauded the city of $207,000 in municipal relief funds, today was sentenced to from seven and one-half to 10 years in the Michigan State Prison at Jackson. The court recommended that he serve the maximum term.

Lewis pleaded guilty a month ago.

Lewis as a counter clerk in the welfare department, issued grocery orders to a fictitious firm which he had organized with himself as proprietor. Later he cashed these orders at the treasurer's office. All but $50,000 of the stolen funds was recovered.

Charles J. McCormick, another welfare clerk who obtained $766, through similar methods, was sentenced to serve from two to 10 years in the Michigan State Prison a month ago.

NONSTOP FLIGHT TO TOKIO ABANDONED

Texans Say It Is Too Late to Make Another Attempt This Year.

By the Associated Press.

FAIRBANKS, Alaska, Aug. 4.—Two Texas aviators, who twice had thought themselves well on the way to Tokio for a nonstop refueling flight, rested here today after the failure of their second attempt due to inability to find their refueling plane in fog and rain.

Messages were coming from Seattle, where they had started their flight, and other points, asking them to reconsider their decision to abandon the flight for 1931, but Reg L. Robbins and Harold S. Jones, Fort Worth (Tex.) flyers, insisted "it's too late to try it again this year."

Their refueling plane, which had landed for more gasoline at Ruby, half way from here to Nome, rejoined them here last night.

Robbins and Jones landed here at 7:35 a. m. yesterday after almost 27 hours in the air since they left Seattle early Sunday.

"When we came over Fairbanks in perfect weather," Robbins said, "and saw clear skies to the westward we thought everything was going to be clear sailing, and it was until we got between Kaltag and Unalakleet.

"Then it became foggy and rainy. It became difficult to keep the refueler in sight and finally we lost it altogether. We realized the refueler could not get over the mountains to Unalakleet, so we came back to Fairbanks and flew over town for three hours hoping (James) Matttern and (Nick) Greener would return so we could refuel and try again.

"But when they did not return and the ground fog lifted we started to land, picking a hole in the fog to set down. We had 50 gallons of gasoline in the tank when we landed. Fuel consumption averaged 22 gallons an hour and the motor worked perfectly all the time."

The refueling flyers came down at Ruby after fighting fogs and clouds over mountain valleys leading into Unalakleet on Norton Sound. After they landed the weather became worse and they were unable to leave. Meanwhile, the Fort Worth, unable to find the refueler, decided it was lost, and returned to Fairbanks.

One refueling contact was made between Fairbanks and Kaltag, which is about 75 miles from Unalakleet, and 100 gallons of gasoline were taken by the Fort Worth.

Early last month the Texans were forced down on their first attempt at Solomon Beach, near Nome, when bad weather made refueling difficult.

NEW EMPLOYMENT SERVICE SUCCESS, DOAK TELLS HOOVER

Labor Secretary Reports Placing of 638,689 Workers From April 1 to July 31.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—President Hoover said today the reorganization of the employment service in the Department of Labor had shown "a large measure of accomplishment." The President at the same time made public a letter from Secretary Doak, who outlined methods followed in expanding and reorganizing the service.

"In a comparatively brief period," Doak said, "the new employment service was actually working and from the date that its wheels were started in operation it had been gaining momentum hourly, until at this time it has demonstrated its worth in a most remarkable degree."

Doak said the service had placed 638,689 workers from April 1 to July 31. The figures, he said, were incomplete because full data had not been received for July.

U. S. GRAND JURY AGAIN TAKES UP CAPONE INQUIRY

Seeks to Re-indict Him Under Jones Law, as Recommended by Judge Wilkerson.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Aug. 4.—The Federal grand jury today began a review of the history of "Scarface Al" Capone's illicit liquor activities, seeking to reindict him under the Jones law as recommended last week by Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson.

Aided by police, Federal officers last night invaded Capone's gangland haunts in search of witnesses but if any were found they did not appear before the grand jury today.

Capone last week moved to change his plea from guilty to not guilty of the liquor and income tax evasion indictments against him.

NO SURPLUS, GOV. STERLING TELLS COTTON CONFERENCE

Points Out Huge Stocks Are Unsold While Millions of Persons Need Clothes.

By the Associated Press.

AUSTIN, Tex., Aug. 4.—Gov. Sterling today told a Southern cotton conference he hoped it could devise some method to eliminate the paradoxical situation of gigantic cotton stocks unsold while millions of persons were poorly clothed.

"We don't have a surplus," the Governor said. "Millions of people are needing clothes. There must be something wrong with the distribution."

The Governor asserted too much concentration of wealth was bad, pointing out France and the United States had 75 per sent of the world's gold.

"In India and China a vast number of people is hungry and naked," he said. "We have nearly nine million bales more cotton than we need. Why can't we arrange a trade?" and then he answered his question by stating that "they have no gold with which to pay."

The whole nation is "somewhat out of order," the Governor said. Some of this disorder was brought about by the "infernal Republican party," he continued. "But we want to leave politics out. The President is a member of that party. We may want to pass resolutions calling on him for aid."

GANGSTER HELD AS ONE OF GRAND BANK ROBBERS

Wincel Urban Accused of Assault With Deadly Weapon on Janitor Whom Burglars Held Up.

UNNAMED WITNESS POINTS HIM OUT

Tells Police of Seeing Him Leave Depository With Handbags on Day of $1,000,000 Theft.

An information charging robbery with a deadly weapon—an offense for which the penalties under the Henry law range from 10 years in prison to death—was filed by Assistant Circuit Attorney McLaughlin today against Wincel Urban, gangster and associate of thieves, in connection with the $1,000,000 burglary of the Grand National Bank.

Urban was identified last night in the police "shadow box" as one of the men seen leaving the bank May 25, 1930, the day of the robbery. A witness, whose identity has been concealed by the Circuit Attorney's office, told McLaughlin after viewing the prisoner, "That's positively the man. I saw him come out of the back of the bank and down the alley next to the Fox Theater. He was carrying a couple of handbags."

The complaint filed by the State against Urban charges that the bags contained bonds valued at $82,000 and $43,000 in cash, the major portion of the bank robbery's loot. Urban is specifically charged with making an assault with a deadly weapon on Ben Strozier, Negro janitor of the bank, who was held up and bound in a basement room by the robbers.

Freed on $25,000 Bond.

Urban was released today on $25,000 bond signed by Jack Keegan, professional bondsman, and approved by Judge Weinbrener, of the Court of Criminal Correction.

Circuit Attorney Miller's policy has been to deny bond to those charged under the Henry law. Reached by telephone at Central Lake, Mich., where he is spending a vacation, he consented to the arrangement when informed that Urban's attorney, William Baer, had indicated he would seek a court order for his client's release on bond.

Had Baer gone to court for such an order, the State, to oppose his application successfully, would have been required to present evidence of a strong case against Urban. That probably would have required the appearance of the witness whose name is withheld.

A general order to the police to arrest Urban was issued some months ago in connection with the Grand National case. Urban was arrested Sunday night by Patrolman James Asher of the Carr Street Station. Asher was off duty and on his way home when he recognized Urban on the corner of Taylor avenue and Delmar boulevard.

Urban's Record.

Born Urbaniak, the prisoner shortened his name some years ago. He is a brother, according to police, of the widow of "Big Bill" Davis, burglar and extortionist who was killed by Deputy Sheriffs and detectives in 1928.

In connection with that case he was arrested on information he had been seen outside a saloon at 4255 St. Louis avenue a few minutes before Davis was killed there. He refused to discuss the case with police preserving a characteristic "none of your business" stand.

Urban has been picked up more than 50 times, but has escaped prosecution. In 1926 he was taken into custody in Dayton, O., with his friend Henry W. Bostelman. Both were armed. Bostelman, a safe burglar, said to have been leader of the Grand National robbers, has begun serving a 35-to-40-year prison term for burglary in the Colorado state prison. He is under indictment for the Grand National Bank robbery.

U. S. Judge Pointed to Neu's Murder as Case for State up when the Cadillac stopped, and after the driver of the Cadillac pumped two shots into Neu's right shoulder, the driver of the preceding car alighted and fired a final fatal bullet into the officer's mouth.

The occupants of the Cadillac then climbed into the preceding car, the driver returned to the wheel and the car raced in toward St. Louis and disappeared. The Cadillac was abandoned beside Neu's body.

Egan Men Suspected at First.

"The very night of the murder there was some suspicion of the Egan gang," Knight recalled. "The city police came out and we were questioning the witnesses.

"This policeman said something about the Egan gang and Ray Renard, but nothing ever came of it.

"All this, of course, was indefinite. Then a Postoffice Inspector came to see me, about August or September, 1924. I told him what I knew about the stolen Cadillac—that was what he wanted to find out—and he told me that the Egan outfit were the ones that had killed Neu. I asked him if I could get the details and he said no.

"Then came the first mail robbery trial, in November, 1924. I was in the courtroom and heard all the testimony. There was nothing definite to prove the Egan ganster killed Eddie, but I was satisfied in my own mind that they did. Furthermore, there were no witnesses who could identify the killers. Johnny Neu, Ed's brother, and Walter Julian, who has a roadhouse at 8400 Gravois, saw the killing, but they weren't close enough to identify anybody. Nobody else even saw the actual killing as far as I could find out.

"I went out to see the Sheriff—it was just before John Willmann went out of office; he's dead now—and he said he didn't see anything to do except to sum up what we had and see if we could make a case. I did that, but I didn't see where I had enough evidence to get these fellows away from the Federal Government when they were already in prison for mail robbery. I never asked the Prosecuting Attorney to go into it.

"I didn't keep any records on the case. I had a few notes for a while, but didn't keep them.

"But I sure would like to see somebody punished for that murder. Eddie and I were pals. He left me just 10 minutes before he got killed. We were down in Luxemberg looking for gambling devices—chuck-a-luck and things like that—at a carnival. Ed said that was too dull, he was going out on the Gravois for a while. I begged him to stay, but he got on his machine and left. And when he got off it again, he was murdered."

Statements by Ex-Prosecutors.

Adam Henry Jones was Prosecuting Attorney of St. Louis County when Deputy Constable Neu was killed. He was in office in November, 1924, after Renard had testified at the first mail robbery trial to the Gravois road circumstances which Federal Judge Faris said was a matter for the State to handle.

In explaining why he took no action, Jones said to the Post-Dispatch: "That came out in November, 1924, just before I was to go out of office. I remember considering the case and deciding I did not have time to do anything about it before the end of my term."

Fred E. Mueller, now a Circuit Judge at Clayton, succeeded Jones as Prosecuting Attorney, taking office in January, 1925. He knew Deputy Constable Neu and attended the funeral. "We would have been glad to prosecute anybody who murdered him," Judge Mueller said, "but we never knew who did it."

Albert Wilmas, who in 1925 became Sheriff, succeeding the late John Willmann, said: "That was a long time ago. I don't remember anything about it."

How Case Was Reopened.

The reopening of the Neu murder case, which has been buried in the records of the county as an unsolved mystery for eight years, was due to the premature paroling of Tipton from the Leavenworth penitentiary last November through the intervention of State Senator Michael Kinney. As was told at the time, there was an unserved sentence of two years in the Missouri Penitentiary standing against Tipton, and the usual hold order was lodged against him at Leavenworth. Former Marshal Schult of the Missouri Supreme Court, now dead, withdrew that hold order some time ago at the request of Senator Kinney, who said he acted from humanitarian motives. Tipton would not have been eligible to parole for another five years if the hold order had remained against him at the Federal prison. These facts were published in the Post-Dispatch shortly after Tipton's release from Leavenworth, from which prison he went, in accordance with Kinney's arrangement with Marshal Schult, to the Missouri Penitentiary, where he now is.

The Post-Dispatch went back into the official records of the mail robbery trial to discover what Tipton's part had been for the news story of the day concerning the extraordinary circumstances surrounding his release from Leavenworth. In that examination of the verbatim report of the trial, the connection between the mail robbery and the murder of Constable Neu was found, and further examination showed clearly that the men who killed Neu were the Egan gangsters who abandoned the mail robbers' stolen Cadillac on the Gravois road.

Investigation of the Supreme Court Marshal's office in Jefferson City to discover whether there were any other irregularities there, such as the withdrawal of the hold orler against Tipton, revealed an unfulfilled mandate of the Supreme Court to put Renard in the State penitentiary on a conviction affirmed by the Court for carrying concealed weapons. There was nothing irregular in connection with the Renard mandate. In fact, Marshal Schult had made every possible effort to take Renard into custody when he was released from the Atlanta penitentiary on commutation of sentence granted by President Coolidge shortly after the affirmation of the conviction of his associates for the mail robbery. But contrary to custom Renard was set free without previous notice to Missouri. Marshal Dalton, who succeeded Schult, applied to Gov. Caulfield for an extradition order on the State of California, where Renard was living, and went out there to serve the Supreme Court mandate. However, the Governor of California refused to honor the extradition on the ground that carrying concealed weapons was only a misdemeanor in California, that Renard had reformed and it would not be serving the best interests of justice to send him back to prison.

Following the publication in the Post-Dispatch last Thursday of the facts discovered in the present investigation, Prosecuting Attorney Castlen of St. Louis County said he would reopen the Neu case, and that if his preliminary inquiry warranted such action he would lay the whole matter before the grand jury.

ARRESTED AFTER CASHING TWO FRAUDULENT CHECKS

Engineer Caught As He Tries to Pass Third; Worked Same Game in Detroit.

A man said to have cashed two fraudulent $50 checks at St. Louis hotels and who was attempting to cash a third, was arrested last night outside Hotel Statler, and according to police admitted cashing four checks amounting to $230 in Detroit last Sunday, as well as those cashed here.

He gave his name as James W. Harmon of Chicago, and said he was an engineer. At 6 o'clock last night, according to police, he went to Hotel Jefferson, registered and inquired for his mail. A letter was waiting for him. He opened it and immediately asked if he might cash a check, which the hotel authorities allowed him to do.

Obtaining $50 on the check, police say, he went to Hotel Statler, registered, asked for mail, got his letter and asked to cash a check. The assistant manager asked if he might hold the check awhile to investigate it, and Harmon gave him permission.

Harmon then went to the Coronado Hotel, according to police, and obtained $50 by his usual process. Detectives had been summoned to Hotel Statler and arrested him when he returned. He had $120 in his pockets when he was arrested, and readily admitted cashing the checks, according to the detectives.

GUARD OFFICERS MOBILIZE TO AWAIT MURRAY OIL ORDER

Oklahoma Governor Has Threatened to Use Troops in Move to Increase Prices.

By the Associated Press.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Ok., Aug. 4.—Expecting a call to enforce a promised executive order from Gov. Murray shutting down prorated oil wells of Oklahoma, officers of the National Guard in station here were being quietly mobilized this afternoon.

Gov. Murray, who promised the order and military authority to enforce it, if necessary, unless crude oil prices went to $1 a barrel by last Saturday night, has not announced when the decree will be issued. The prices remain at a 50-cent top.

There was a brisk activity in the office of Adjutant-General Charles F. Barrett of the National Guard. Employes worked through the noon hour telephoning officers.

Eugene Eilerman, 15 years old, 2728A St. Louis avenue, was drowned yesterday afternoon while swimming in the Mississippi River at the foot of Angelica street.

Eugene and three companions went to the river bank to dig fishing worms. Eilerman stripped and dived into the water. When about 40 feet from shore he suddenly cried out, and then sank, apparently being carried down by undertow.

His companions, none of whom could swim, picked up his clothes and reported the drowning at North Market Police Station. The body has not been recovered.

BOY, 9, KNOCKED FROM BICYCLE BY AUTOMOBILE, DIES

Driver of Car and Witnesses Say Lad Was Riding on Wrong Side of the Street.

Thomas O'Leary, 9 years old, 5752 Maple avenue, died at St. Luke's Hospital yesterday of injuries suffered a week ago when he was knocked from his bicycle by an automobile in front of 5737 Vernon avenue.

Thomas, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul O'Leary, was hit by a machine driven by Joseph Simpson, a mechanic, 3824 Lindell boulevard, last Tuesday. Simpson and witnesses said the boy was riding east on the wrong side of the street and turned into the path of the westbound machine.

Aged Man Knocked Beneath Trailer Dies.

Thomas McDonough, 72 years old, residing at the Erie House, died at City Hospital yesterday of injuries suffered last Friday when knocked beneath a trailer attached to a motor truck.

McDonough alighted from a street car at Easton avenue and Kingshighway and walked against the side of the trailer as the driver, Milton Kupferer of St. Louis County, was starting up. A wheel of the trailer passed over McDonough.

These deaths bring the number of motor vehicle fatalities in the city since Jan. 1 to 105, compared with 88 on the corresponding date last year.

Vernon Ketcherside, 11 years old, 3830 North Twenty-fifth street, suffered fractured ribs and a broken leg yesterday when he was brushed off the side of a motor truck when the driver passed close to a telephone pole on Bremen avenue, near Ninth street. John Berry, the driver, 1932 Clara avenue, told police he did not know the boy had been injured until informed by witnesses.

Roy Harris, 21, a Negro, 2031 Wash street, suffered a fractured skull and other injuries last night when a borrowed automobile he was driving west in Morgan street crashed into a Belt line street car at Eighteenth street, derailing the street car. The automobile was demolished.

Lucille Bryant, 11 years old, suffered fractures of the skull and ribs last night when she ran against the side of a motor truck in front of the Bryant home, 2412A North Broadway. The driver did not stop.

KILLS HIMSELF WITH RIFLE

Harry Bergfeld, Laborer, Found Shot Dead in Home.

The body of Harry Bergfeld, 29 years old, a laborer, was found with a bullet wound in the head at his home, 8505 Minnesota avenue, last midnight.

A small caliber rifle was beside the body, which was lying in the bathroom, according to a brother, Elmer Bergfeld. Elmer and other relatives said they knew of no reason for Harry's action.

Three Couples Prove Happy Marriage at 'Flitch' Trial

Each Awarded Side of Bacon by Jury of Six Maids and Six Bachelors in Revival of Dunmow, England, Custom.

By the Associated Press.

DUNMOW, England, Aug. 4.—Three couples, claiming to be "happy though married," appeared yesterday before the centuries-old "Dunmow flitch" jury and apparently proved their contention that there is connubial bliss.

The custom of the "flitch" trial dates back to 1445. It was dropped during the war and revived in a small way last year.

A flitch, or side of bacon, is awarded to each couple who prove before a jury of six maids and six bachelors that they have lived happily for one year and a day.

A. Mortimer appeared as counsel to defend the flitch and G. P. Emery acted as counsel for the claimants. The first to appear were Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Cox of London. Cox, who is a hairdresser, said he became acquainted with his wife through dressing her hair and that since their marriage he has never once regretted it. He said his hobby was making model yachts and his wife helped in preparing the sails.

"Who clears up the chips after Mr. Cox has been making yachts in the drawing room?" asked the Judge, Col. T. Gibbons. "He does," Mrs. Cox replied, "and without being told."

Mr. and Mrs. O. E. Hodgetts of Fulham and Mr. and Mrs. N. Devoil of Dunmow were the other claimants.

Hodgetts, who is a motor mechanic, said his hobby was wireless.

"You know Adam went in for wireless," the Judge said. "He exchanged his spare part for a loud speaker."

Hodgetts said his wife was a second cousin of Jack Dempsey.

"No wonder you are happy," said the Judge.

Devoil confessed to kissing a woman in a movie, thinking she was his fiancee, but said it was explained and no trouble followed. Neighbors testified that the Devoils were always laughing and happy, so they were awarded a flitch as were the Coxes.

Because the marriage of the Hodgetts occurred at the Registry Office, it was contended that they were not eligible, but the jury awarded them half a flitch.

COSTUMES OF HAREM SHOWN FOR FIRST TIME IN TURKEY

On Display With Other Treasures on Opening of Fourth Room in Seraglio Palace.

By the Associated Press.

ISTANBUL, Turkey, Aug. 4.—The fourth room of the imperial Ottoman treasury in Seraglio Palace has been opened to the public by the Kemalist Government. It houses diamonds and rubies, ermine and brocade, jeweled swords and royal prayer beads of huge pearls.

Costumes of Sultans are displayed. The ermine-lined robe and the turban worn by Mohammed, the conqueror of Constantinople, are here, side by side with the miniature turban and the miniature sultanic robe worn by a little Ottoman Prince when he went to school. Costumes of the harem are displayed for the first time. The most gorgeous is that of Princess Fatima, daughter of Sultan Mustapha III. The flower-garden gown of embroidered brocade was worn with jeweled boots.

Jewels in this room supplement the royal collection in the other three rooms opened a few years ago. Hre are gathered, line upon long line, the prayer beads fingered by padishahs, caliphs and imperial ladies. They are of precious stones and one of these Moslem rosaries consists of 99 pearls, perfectly matched and perfectly round, each the size of a hazel nut.

No official estimate of the value of this new collection is given, but it is obviously worth several million dollars.

NURSE DIES WHEN DINING WITH COUSIN AT HOTEL

Miss Rita Light Had Suffered from Heart Ailment, Brother Says.

Miss Rita Light, 24 years old, a nurse at St. John's Hospital, died suddenly last night while dining at Hotel Statler with her cousin, E. B. Davis, of Chicago.

Ralph Light, a brother, of 4615 Lindell boulevard, told police his sister had been under treatment for heart disease. Davis explained that he was in St. Louis on business and invited his cousin to have dinner with him. She appeared in good health, he said, but suddenly collapsed, and was pronounced dead by the hotel physician. A Coroner's autopsy today revealed death was caused by cerebral hemorrhage.

DIES AFTER CHASING DOGS

Frank Whittle, 73 years old, died suddenly last night at his home, 3952 Castleman avenue, after chasing two dogs, which he found eating a plate of butter on the rear porch.

Death is believed to have been due to a heart attack superinduced by the exertion and excitement. An autopsy will be performed.

$2,643,687 STREET PROGRAM COMPLETED

Work for 1931 Smallest Since 1925; 29 Miles Are Constructed.

The program of street construction by the city this year has been completed, providing for 96 undertakings at an estimated cost of $2,643,687. They cover 29.59 miles of streets. While many of the jobs have been finished, a few remain to be done.

This is the smallest volume of street construction here since 1925, when 25.6 miles were built for $2,320,000. Last year there were 151 undertakings, covering 38.15 miles, for $3,571,390. This year's program is divided as follows:

Asphalt, 31 undertakings, 11.11 miles, $1,355,096.70; asphaltic concrete (a thinner asphalt surface), 20, 2.54 miles, $238,131.89; Amiesite, a patented asphaltic material, no longer being used by the city, this job having been left over from last year, .32 of a mile, $40,068.90; Warrenite, a patented asphaltic material, the use of which has been reduced sharply by the city, 10 undertakings, 2.13 miles, $215,565.76; concrete, 15, 9.15 miles, $497,499.09; vibrolithic concrete (involving a special laying apparatus), 14, 2.43 miles, $164,809.59; recut granite blocks, two, .37 of a mile, $107,972; grading, three, 1.54 miles, $24,543.50.

The Board of Public Service ordered less Warrenite paving this year than in any year since its use in quantity began. Most of the street paving work is paid for by special tax bills against adjoining property, although in some instances the city pays for part or even all of it.

There were 64 alley paving jobs this year, covering 7.75 miles, for an estimated cost of $173,643.72. Last year there were 96, for 12.06 miles, costing $326,219. Objections of taxpayers, largely arising from the depression, were chiefly responsible for a considerable curtailment of the street and alley improvement program this year.

SEEKS PERMIT TO LAY MAIN

The line, a four-inch main, would run under Bremen from the company's 10-inch main at Second street to Twenty-first, a distance of only 3035 feet.

DEFENDS CITY WORKER FIRED AFTER 37 YEARS

Former Hospital Commissioner Says He Found Miss Rowan Efficient.

Dr. J. Wilbur Shankland, former Hospital Commissioner, today declared that the dismissal of Miss Elizabeth Rowan as chief clerk at the City Hospital after 37 years of service was "motivated by politics." Dr. Shankland, who was succeeded as commissioner in 1929 by Dr. Curtis H. Lohr, after four years in office, said he always had found Miss Rowan efficient, although her resignation was requested on the ground of "inefficiency."

"She entered the hospital as a bookkeeper," Dr. Shankland said, "and by close attention to business made many friends and gave the city unexcelled service. She has served under about 10 superintendents, five directors of public welfare and five hospital commissioners. She should receive a pension instead of the boot."

Dr. Shankland said Miss Rowan had undertaken the education of two girls and was the friend of 1000 physicians who have served interneships at City Hospital.

Dr. Shankland asserted Miss Rowan was "railroaded," declaring the procedure was the same as practiced on Mrs. Christine Moss, dismissed as social service worker at the same time, and in the case of Dr. Elbert J. Lee, supplanted as superintendent recently by V. Ray Alexander.

Informed that Miss Rowan and Mrs. Moss had received a hearing before Dr. Lohr and other hospital officials before their resignations were requested, Dr. Shankland said, "I know all about hearings like that. They don't mean a thing."

Dr. Lohr said today that prior to the dismissal of Miss Rowan and Mrs. Moss a "thorough investigation" was conducted in conjunction with representatives of the Comptroller's office.

"Politics did not enter into the matter in any way," Dr. Lohr asserted, "and the resignations were requested because the results of the investigation showed conclusively that it was for the good of the service to request them."

Mrs. Moss, who lives at 4566A Gibson avenue, has declined to discuss her dismissal, other than to deny charges of "insubordination and indiscretions" against her. Miss Rowan, who is visiting relatives at Meta, Mo., did not discuss her case.

OPERA OF "PETER IBBETSON" RECEIVES OVATION AT RAVINIA

First Performance Outside of New York; Deems Taylor Impressed With Presentation.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Aug. 4.—Ravinia rang with praise last night for "Peter Ibbetson," the opera in English by Deems Taylor, written from Du Maurier's fantasy of dreams and unrequitted love.

It was the first performance outside of New York, where the Metropolitan opera company sang it last February.

To Taylor, the premiere in the North Shore garden of grand opera, was "the greatest all-around performance I have ever heard."

Two Metropolitan stars, Lucrezia Bori and Edward Johnson, had the roles of Mary, Duchess of Towers, and Peter Ibbetson—their characterizations in the New York cast.

The composer, led to the dais by Louis Eckstein, Ravinia's impressario, said he was "thunderstruck that such a great presentation could be given on such short preparation and with so few rehearsals."

More than 4500 persons passed through Ravinia's gates. Every seat was filled, under the roof and without, and the promenades were packed.

Edward Moore, in the Tribune, said "Peter Ibbetson is apparently due to be the most popular American opera yet writte- "

To Glenn Dillard Gunn of the Herald and Examiner, "Taylor has wrought a magic in his score that is compounded of a thousand elusive beauties. It is a fine and subtle piece of art that this American genius has created."

GOV. ROOSEVELT GIVES BLOOD FOR INFANTILE PARALYSIS FIGHT

It Will Be Used in Manufacture of Serum to Combat Disease in New York.

By the Associated Press.

ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 4.—Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, who ten years ago was stricken with infantile paralysis, has given a pint of his blood to be used in the manufacture of serum for combatting the curren- outbreak of the disease centering in New York City.

Announcement of the Governor's donation was made last night by the State Department of Health, which said his action was in response to an appeal to all who had been afflicted with the disease to give blood to the department.

He made a similar donation during an outbreak of the disease in 1926, two years before his election to the Governorship.

CATALAN VOTE IS CRITICISED

Press in Rest of Spain Fears Effect of Autonomy Plebiscite.

By the Associated Press.

MADRID, Aug. 4.—Approval of Catalonian autonomy by Sunday's plebiscite was criticised today by the press in the rest of Spain.

Newspapers in Madrid and elsewhere protested against what they called the attempt of Catalonia to amputate itself from the nation. They declared the result would be the creation of regionalist elements and disturbances contributing to the ruin of the country.

About 40 color print reproductions of paintings of modern European masters have been hung in the new basement galleries of City Art Museum in Forest Park. They are part of a larger collection being assembled for use of the educational department of the museum.

The paintings from which they have been reproduced are in famous art galleries of Europe. The artists represented include Cezanne, Monet, Manet, Derain, Seurat, Picasso, Gaugin, Van Gogh, Renoir, Degas, Matisse, and Dunoyer de Segonzac.

The prints themselves represent the most modern color printing processes of Europe, showing colors in their full range and indicating the brush work and surface texture of the canvas.

WESTERN CARTRIDGE CO. REPLIES TO DU PONT SUIT

Assents to Taking of Testimony But Denies Validity of Patent Is Involved.

By the Associated Press

WILMINGTON, Del., Aug. 4.—The Western Cartridge Co., East Alton, Ill., yesterday filed an answer to a bill of complaints of the E. I. du Pont de Nemours Co. in which the latter attributed to the rival company charges of patent infringements.

The du Pont company stated in the complaint that the Western company had told du Pont customers the latter was infringing on a powder patent owned by the Western Cartridge Co. The bill of complaints was filed, they said, in the event that the Western Cartridge Co. might bring suit against du Pont at some future time. It asked that testimony of du Pont officers and former officers be taken regarding the patent rights in question before the officers mentioned died or moved out of the court's jurisdiction.

The answer filed yesterday consented to the taking of the testimony but denied that the validity of the Western Cartridge Co.'s powder patent was involved.

INSISTS DRY REPEAL WILL GIVE JOBS TO 30,000 ST. LOUIS MEN

Mrs. Mary Ryder Defends Figures Which Were Challenged by Anti-Saloon Leader.

Mrs. Mary Ryder, vice chairman of Missouri Branch, Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform, whose statement that repeal of the eighteenth amendment would put 30,000 men to work in St. Louis, was challenged by P. A. Tate, superintendent of the Missouri Anti-Saloon League, disputed Tate's conclusions in a statement yesterday.

Mrs. Ryder said the Citizens' Defense Committee reported after a survey that the brewing and allied industries in 1910 employed 45,000 men who received $6,922,880 in wages and that more than 130,000 persons were dependent on these industries.

Tate had quoted the Missouri Blue Book for 1917 as reporting 7617 men employed in St. Louis breweries. He had no figures for allied industries.

SHOOTS WOODCHUCK, KILLS SON

New Jersey Man Finds Bullet Ricocheted Against Ground.

By the Associated Press.

SPARTA, N. J., Aug. 4.—Samuel Goble went home happy yesterday after he had killed a woodchuck, unaware that one of his shots had ricocheted and killed his son.

Harold Goble, 8 years old, and his brother, Aaron, 5, had been trundling a wheelbarrow along a road at the side of the woods. "Something flew up out of the ground and hit Harold," the younger brother told his father later. "I put him in the wheelbarrow and took him home."

A Railroad Has Many Owners

A Message from L. A. Downs, President Illinois Central System.

Railway plants don't just grow. They are built up painstakingly out of the savings of thousands of industrious citizens, to whom interest and dividends often mean their own or their dependents' subsequent support.

Title to the Illinois Central System is vested in approximately 20,000 stockholders. Five out of every six of them own fewer than 100 shares. Two out of every five reside in states in which the Illinois Central System operates. One out of every twenty is an employe of the railroad.

More than half the railway investment is represented by bonds, many of which are held by insurance companies, savings banks and endowed institutions of learning. Through these bondholders thousands of other individuals become indirectly, but none the less really, dependent upon railway earnings.

Constructive criticism and suggestions are invited.

Chicago, August 1, 1931.

This is the third of a series of sketches descriptive of this railroad. Its territory and its plant have been covered; other sketches will cover personnel and patrons.

NEGRO KNIGHTS TO GIVE 'MARDI GRAS' PARADE TONIGHT

Delegates to the twenty-fourth annual meeting of the Ancient United Knights & Daughters of Africa, a Negro fraternal organization with headquarters here, will witness a "Mardi Gras" parade by their uniformed military department over midtown streets this evening. Afterward there will be a fete on a lot at Grand boulevard and Laclede avenue, which has been inclosed and decorated for the occasion. The convention is continuing all week.

Ernest Patillo, national grand master, delivered his annual address at Metropolitan A. M. E. Zion Church, Garrison and Lucas avenues, this morning. Various other officers made reports. Gov. Caulfield, coming here from Jefferson City by airplane, welcomed the convention yesterday at Metropolitan Church. He told of advances made in Missouri during his administration in Negro education. Among other speakers were City Register Grosse, sent by Mayor Miller, and Jacob M. Lashly, representing the Chamber of Commerce.

PREDICTS NEW ERA OF WORLD CONCORD

State Department Official Says Kellogg Pact Has Changed Course of Events.

By the Associated Press.

WILLIAMSTON, Mass., Aug. 4.—The Kellogg-Briand pact outlawing war as a means of settling disputes between nations was described today by James Oliver Murdock as the cornerstone of a new international social order.

The Assistant Solicitor of the State Department told the Institute of Politics here that "the great social significance of the pact is that it has effected a turn in the tide of the world affairs away from war towards international peace. The nations of the world are on a new highway to international co-operation, law and order."

Prior to the Paris pact for the renunciation of war, Murdock said, international relations had been conducted in two distinct ways, by pacific settlement and war. War, he continued, had been under suspicion for a long time as conflicts merely had increased the number of controversies, devasted territory, depleted man-power and destroyed wealth.

"It is not by accident that the movement to renounce war came in the twentieth century," he said. "The radical changes in the nature of warfare wrought by science have left mankind no practical alternative. Ancient warfare treatened violence principally to trained combatants, modern warfare is between whole populations. It threatens the existence of everyone, including the men who declare it."

Murdock said the Paris treaty obligates 59 of the world's 65 nations to renounce war as an instrument of national policy and to seek a solution of all disputes by pacific means only.

Noting that it had been criticized for failing to renounce national self-defense, the Assistant Solicitor said:

"That right is inherent not only in every nation, but in every individual. . . . The pact, however, does not give express recognition to the right of self-defense."

The pact was said by Murdock to be the basis of the London naval conference where great Powers agreed to limit all classes of warships.

He said "this is but the beginning" and recalled that an international conference on land armaments is to be held in Geneva in 1932 and another naval conference in 1935.

"Striving for the limitation of armament is one of the outstanding policies of the administration," Murdock said. ". . . possibly the most important step which has not been taken to date by the United States to implement the second article of the pact of Paris is entry into the world court. As you are aware, protocols that would provide for membership of the United States in the Permanent Court of International Justice have been submitted with unqualified indorsement by the President to the Senate. . . .

"If the United States is wholeheartedly to participate in the administration of international justice, what more progressive step could be taken than that of becoming a member of the Permanent Court of International Justice?"

Ex-Congressman Arrested.

CHICAGO, Aug. 4.—Former Congressman Stanley Kunz (Dem.), was arrested yesterday on a warrant charging him with criminal libel. The warrant was obtained by Charles Granata, brother of Congressman Peter C. Granata (Rep.), who defeated Kunz for reelection from the Eighth Illinois District. Charles Granata, who was active in his brother's campaign, charged Kunz accused him of having gang affiliations. Kunz posted $500 cash bond.

UNION MEN EXEMPT IN MO. PAC. PAY CUT

1500 Organized Clerks and Station Workers Continue Under Old Schedules.

Wage adjustments for officers and clerical and station employes of the Missouri Pacific Railroad, effective last Saturday, do not apply to about 1500 clerks and station workers who are members of the Brotherhood of Railway Clerks, E. C. Wills, assistant general manager in charge of personnel, has announced.

About 1500 clerks who are not members of the union have accepted an adjustment amounting to 8 1-3 per cent, or the equivalent of one day off without pay every two weeks. Officers and others in a supervisory capacity have accepted the following wage reduction: Salaries $5000 and less, 10 per cent; $5000 to $5500, 12½ per cent; above $5500, 16 2-3 per cent.

In a statement Wills asserted the railroad had proposed that the clerical forces accept a reduction in working time of one day each alternate week, in order to avoid a reduction in force.

"Employes working under an agreement between the railroad and the Brotherhood of Railway Clerks preferred a force reduction to any temporary modification of their schedule rules and no changes, therefore, have been made in any of their working conditions," Wills stated. "Clerical forces, who on account of their duties and responsibilities are by agreement excepted from the wage schedule, preferred to give up one day each alternate week, which arrangement has been put into effect."

Wills stated a result of the partial failure of the "time off" plan was a force reduction involving about 150 men.

James M. Doyle, general chairman of the Brotherhood of Railway Clerks for the Missouri Pacific, and chairman of the Policy Committee of the Western Regional Association, representing clerks on 42 Western railroads, stated his organization declined to consent to any modification of the contract or working agreement between the Clerks' Brotherhood and the Missouri Pacific.

$25,000 MISSING FROM MAILS

Package From Bahamas to New York Taken From Pouch.

NEW YORK, Aug. 4.—Postal authorities have been investigating the disappearance of a package containing $25,000 in currency from a mail pouch delivered here by the Cunard liner Mauretania, it was disclosed last night.

The currency, consigned to the New York branch of the Royal Bank of Canada, was the only piece of mail missing from the pouch, which arrived here on June 8 from Nassau, Bahamas. Since the outer seals of the pouch were unbroken and signs of tampering were absent, postal inspectors were of the opinion the theft occurred in Nassau.

The currency package apparently was extricated by slitting an inner pouch and a leather bag.

I. C. C. WITHHOLDS O.K OF PENNROAD DEAL

Detroit, Toledo & Ironton Was to Have Been United With Toledo-Detroit.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—Holding that unification of the Detroit, Toledo & Ironton, the Detroit & Ironton, and the Toledo-Detroit railroads would, in effect, recognize legality of their control by the Pennroad Corporation and the Pennsylvania Railroad, Examiner A. C. Devoe today recommended that the Interstate Commerce Commission withhold its approval of the plan.

The Detroit, Toledo & Ironton, which filed the application for unification of the three roads, owns all of the capital stock of the Toledo-Detroit, while the Pennroad Corporation owns all of the stock of the Detroit & Ironton and certificates representing its first mortgage bonds.

The Pennroad Corporation also owns all of the adjustment mortgage bonds of the Detroit, Toledo & Ironton, and all except four shares of its preferred stock and six shares of its common stock.

On Nov. 1, 1930, the Detroit & Ironton, the Toledo-Detroit and the Pennroad Corporation agreed to a reorganization for the purpose of bringing the various roads under ownership of a single corporation. The Pennroad Corporation was to exchange its holdings of the securities of the Detroit, Toledo & Ironton and the Detroit & Ironton for new securities of the consolidated lines dollar for dollar.

The examiner recalled that the Detroit, Toledo & Ironton, under the commission's consolidation plan, was assigned to the Chesapeake & Ohio-Nickel Plate System.

After reviewing methods of organization and operation of the Pennroad Corporation, he said:

"From the record it is clear that the Pennroad is merely an agency of the Pennsylvania, that as such agency it has acquired control of the applicant, the Detroit & Ironton and the Toledo-Detroit, and that for all practical purposes the Pennsylvania, through this agency, now controls the three companies.

"The commission, in effect, is asked to recognize the lawfulness of this control by authorizing the applicant to issues its stocks and bonds, all of which with the exception of four shares of stock, would be delivered to the Pennroad.

"Provision for acquisition by one carrier of control of another under lease or by purchase of stock or in any other manner not involving consolidation of such carriers into a single system for ownership and operation is made under section 5 of the interstate commerce act, and provision for consolidation of two or more carriers into a single system for ownership, management and operation of properties heretofore under separate ownership, management and operation when such consolidation is in harmony with the commission's plan of consolidation, is made in section 5, article 6 of the act.

"The commission has prescribed the procedure to be followed under these provisions. Control of the applicant and its affiliated companies was not effected pursuant to either of these provisions."

HUNDREDS OF CHILDREN NEED CLOTHING TO ATTEND SCHOOL

Appeal Made Over Radio by Citizens' Committee for Cast-off Garments and Shoes.

Hundreds of children cannot enter school this fall unless supplied with clothing by the Citizens' Committee on Relief and Employment, Mrs. Irvin Bettman, chairman of the committee's clothing bureau, said yesterday in a talk over Radio Station WIL.

"I want to urge you to send everything you can spare to the bureau," Mrs. Bettman said. "Even if it isn't in ready-to-wear shape, the bureau can fix it up. Nothing goes to waste there, even piece goods and badly worn garments can be made over. New soles can be put on shoes and shoes are badly needed, particularly men's work shoes and shoes of school children."

Bundles may be taken to the bureau at 1312 Pine street or will be called for if a telephone request is made. The telephone number at the bureau is CEntral 3365.

RECEIVERSHIP SUIT AGAINST HEATING FIRM

Former Vice President Says Skinner Bros. Mfg. Co. Is Dominated by Bank.

Suit for a receiver for the Skinner Bros. Manufacturing Co., maker of heating and ventilating equipment, at 1474 South Vandeventer avenue, was filed in Circuit Court yesterday by Merrill G. Skinner, former vice president and secretary, owning 1638 shares of stock, and William Cross, another stockholder.

They allege that although the company is solvent its business is virtually at a standstill and its affairs are dominated by the Lafayette-South Side Bank & Trust Co., its largest creditor, also named as defendant.

Prior to 1928, when the company sustained a loss of $100,000, it was prosperous and had assets of $1,000,000, the suit says. At that time it gave the bank a first mortgage on its property, securing $125,000 of a debt of $200,000, it is stated. Since that time, the suit continues, the debt to the bank has increased to $240,000, of which $115,000 is secured by the mortgage. The suit also asks that the company be restrained from giving a second mortgage to the bank.

The bank forced Skinner's resignation on April 1, the suit says, and procured the appointment of Walter Siegerist as general manager. Subsequently, the bank caused the election of Siegerist, E. G. Curtis and William J. Jones, vice president of the bank, to the company's board of five directors, the suit continues, and on July 27 the board relinquished management of the company to an executive committee consisting of Siegerist, Jones, and G. A. Kalbfleisch.

The suit also seeks to restrain enforcement of an alleged trust agreement to deposit a majority of the voting stock with Jones, Frederick A. C. Skinner, president and treasurer, owning 2000 shares of stock, is named an individual defendant together with Jones, Curtis and Siegerist. The suit asks for removal of the individual defendants as officers and directors.

The company is capitalized for $500,000, according to the suit, which lists liabilities of $422,000. The petition is set for hearing next Tuesday.

Jones would not comment.

PHIL A. BENNETT NOT TO RUN

HERMIT KILLED BY SNAKE BITE

Attacked by One of Rattlers With Which He Earned Living.

By the Associated Press.

FORT JERVIS, N. Y., Aug. 4.—The story of a hermit who died in his cabin from the bite of one of the rattlesnakes he caught for his livelihood, has come out of the remote mountain sections of Pike County, Pennsylvania.

The 74-year-old recluse, Edward Wenzel, was found dead on his cot by neighbors. Near the head of the cot, in a wire cage, was a rattler. Hanging in a bag hooked on the limb of a tree outside was another live rattler. County authorities found snake venom serum in his cabin. They said he probably had been bitten as he prowled about the rocky ledges where the snakes bask in the sun.

Kills Hostess; Ends Life.

By the Associated Press.

ISLIP, N. Y., Aug. 4.—Mrs. A. W. Plumb of Islip Manor was dead today and her husband seriously wounded as a result of the sudden derangement of their close friend and neighbor, Eugene Maney, 53. Maney, police reported, last night walked to the Plumb home for dinner, then produced a revolver and fired at his hosts. He then ran back to his own home, set the house afire and shot himself to death. Police said Maney had been despondent since the death of his wife two years ago.

HAINES HURLS CARDS TO 7-1 VICTORY OVER PITTSBURG

JAPANESE STAR TAKES LEAD IN PUBLIC PARKS GOLF TOURNEY

By the Associated Press.

KELLER CLUB, ST. PAUL, Minn., Aug. 4.—Arthur Sato, diminutive Japanese from San Francisco, shot a par 72 today to snatch the lead over the early field in the first 18-hole qualifying round of the national public links golf championship tournament.

Sato, a shrimp packer by profession, was the only player in the early field to hold par even on the wind-swept championship Keller course. He missed several chances to better perfect figures, but sailed along steadily with par 36s out and in. Despite his short weight, 115 pounds, and his height, five feet three inches, his mighty tee shots were the class of his game.

His card:

Out:

Par ....445 343 544—36
Sato ....435 343 554—36

In:

Par ....445 343 445—36—72
Sato ....445 344 435—36—72

Charles Albertus, golfing printer from Philadelphia, had a 74.

Ade Fordham, St. Paul, Minnesota public links champion came in with a 77, five over par. Estimates of the 36-hole total necessary to land among the low 32, who will battle it out for the championship starting Thursday, ranged from 162 to 168.

Leo J. Cooney, Baltimore, paired with Fordham, got a poor start with 45-44—89. Bruce McCormick, Los Angeles, carded 40-39—79 while Al Priebe, representative of the home Keller course, scored 41-40—81.

Scores for the first 18-hole qualifying round:

A. G. Sato, San Francisco, 72.
Charles Albertus, Philadelphia, 74.
Ed Greenway, Seattle, 75.
Barney Lucas, Los Angeles, 75.
Charles Delsanter, Cleveland, 76.
Mike Sumiak, Philadelphia, 76.
Robert Gourlay, Seattle, 76.
Ade Fordham, St. Paul, 77.
Lloyd Mead, Portland, Ore., 77.

CALLAHAN RIDES TWO SUCCESSIVE WINNING RACES

By the Associated Press.

EMPIRE CITY RACE TRACK, N. Y., Aug. 4.—The diminutive apprentice jockey Hubert Callahan stole the honors of the day by piloting two straight winners, in the second and third races here this afternoon. After his score astride the long shot, All Columbia, in the second, Callahan brought J. C. Haggerty's colt Surpass, a 6 to 1 shot, home in front of nine other platers in the third contest, a test of a mile and 70 yards.

Surpass had run the previous day and was beaten off, but the son of Bud Lerner ran to his best form under Callahan today. He crossed the wire two lengths clear of At Random, while Skid annexed the show position, a similar distance back. Nelson had the early foot of the field while Wonderful, Listening Ears and Skid raced close up. Callahan brought Surpass around the leaders coming to the stretch and then the colt swerved over to the inside as he took command. He easily maintained his advantage when At Random came with a rush at the end. The time was 1:47 4-5.

Browns' Game Called Off; Open Date Tomorrow

RAIN which fell before noon caused a postponement of the final game of the series this afternoon between the Browns and the Cleveland Indians.

The Browns will have another day of idleness tomorrow, it being an open date on their schedule. The team will depart tomorrow night for Chicago to open a series there with the White Sox Thursday.

BOEHMER AND EGGMAN LOSE AT SOUTHAMPTON

SOUTHAMPTON, N. Y., Aug. 4.—Wilmer Allison, No. 3 national ranking star, of Austin, Tex., was the first casualty in the annual invitation tournament here today when he was beaten by Keith Gledhill, Santa Barbara, Cal., 6—4, 9—7.

The former Davis cup doubles star was in fine form, but the blond coast player, who is ranked No. 14, was good in all departments. By the win Gledhill moved into the third round. Gledhill was at match point four times before winning.

Ellsworth Vines Jr., national clay court winner and seeded No. 3, defeated another coast athlete, Jack Tidball of Los Angeles, 6—4, 6—3, while John Van Ryn, Philadelphia, who is seeded No. 8, had an easy time vanquishing Edward McKnight, South Orange, N. J., 6—1, 6—1.

Berkeley Bell, Austin, Tex., unseeded player, was forced to his best game to win his second round match from Gus Boehmer Jr., St. Louis, 9—7, 6—4, while Ted Eggman, St. Louis, eliminated Lieut. John W. Helms, West Point, 6—1, 6—2.

J. Gilbert Hall, South Orange, N. J., defeated Frank Bonneau, New York, 6—2, 6—1.

John Hope Doeg of Santa Monica, national champion, advanced to the third round by defeating Ed Yoemans of Washington, 3—6, 6—4, 6—4 in a close match. Gregory S. Mangin of Newark conquered Dave Jones of New York, 10—8, 6—2, in the second round.

Sidney Wood Jr., 19-year-old champion of Wimbledon and winner of the Southampton tournament last year, was forced to default to Jake Hess of Fort Worth, Tex., because of a sprained wrist.

George Lott Jr., Cliff Sutter and Bryan Grant, other high-ranking players, advanced to the third round, but all were carried to three sets. Lott disposed of Jerry Lang of New York, 6—4, 4—6, 6—2; Sutter stopped Dick Murphy of New York, 4—6, 6—2, 7—5, while Grant won from Herbert L. Bowman of New York, 6—4, 7—9, 6—1.

Vines proceeded past the third round by whipping Eugene McAuliff of Yonkers, 6—4, 10—8. Mangin kept the pace by dispatching Ted Eggman of St. Louis, 8—6, 6—2.

Roosevelt High Boy Making Good In Pro Baseball

Charley "Brownie" Baronovic, product of Roosevelt High School, has thrown over a chance to acquire further scholastic athletic laurels, for a professional baseball career, it was learned today. After "Brownie" had been enlisted in the Cardinals' organization and had played on the Danville team of the Three-I League for about a month, it was announced that he had been sent to Elmira of the New York-Pennsylvania League, a recently acquired addition to the Cardinal system, considered to be a faster league than the Three-I.

Baronovic startled the local scholastic athletic world by gaining a place at end on the "All-Star" football team, although it was his first season on the squad, and his play proved a big factor in Roosevelt's championship season. "Brownie's" work at first base on the title-winning baseball team caused a great deal of favorable comment, to the extent that he attracted the attention of the Cardinal ivory-hunters. He bats and throws left-handed.

Baronovic, who will be 18 next November, resides with his parents at 4964 Botanical avenue when he is in St. Louis.

MACDONALD SMITH SETS COURSE RECORD

By the Associated Press.

BAYSHORE, N. Y., Aug. 4.—MacDonald Smith shot a 68 and established a new record for the Southward Ho course in the opening round of the Long Island open gold championship today. Smith is the present holder of the metropolitan title. W. H. Cox of Dyker Beach returned a 70, and was Smith's closest competitor among early finishers of the round.

Joe Ghnouly, Just a "Prelim" Fighter a Year Ago, Returns To St. Louis With 20 Victories

By W. J. McGoogan.

Joe Ghnouly, the little South St. Louis boxer who had a tough time making a name for himself here, then went east to win 20 out of 21 battles under the management of Gus Wilson, famous trainer of Orangeburg, N. J. is back home to visit his family. He is taking a vacation prior to going into training for a return match with Joey Costa, the only boy to gain a decision over him in more than a year.

Several years ago Wilson, who has trained some of the greatest fighters in the ring, saw Joe for the first time and thought well of his ability. He asked Ghnouly to go East and enter his camp, but Joe was too young to leave home.

After a year of haphazard work in local rings, Joe saw that if he was to get anywhere in the fight game he would have to have expert supervision, something which he didn't believe he could get in St. Louis, so he packed his bag and went to Wilson's camp.

Joe thought he could box until he went to work under Wilson. Then he realized that he had many deficiencies which the veteran trainer set out to overcome. One thing at a time he taught Joe and made him do it until perfected. A left hook, that most valuable weapon for a fighter, was almost unknown to Joe until Wilson got hold of him. Now Ghnouly claims that is his best punch.

He has lived in Wilson's camp for more than a year, having the advantage of boxing with some of the very best boxers while they were in training for big bouts. Kid Chocolate, who recently defeated Benny Bass, Tony Canzoneri, lightweight champion of the world, and Benny Leonard, retired lightweight champion, are some who have helped Joe with their ring knowledge. Leonard seconded Ghnouly in some of his bouts.

The knowledge which Joe picked up from these men he put to good use as his record shows. He was thrown into the ring with a tough boy in his first fight under Wilson. His trainer and manager desiring to learn if Joe could be hurt, but come back to win. Floored twice in that first fight he came on to gain the decision and Wilson was satisfied he had the goods. Now Gus is seeking matches with the best boys in the featherweight and even the junior lightweight division for Joe.

Is More Rugged Fighter.

Ghnouly is not quite 20 years old. Always a rugged type of boy, his work in the East has made him bigger and stronger and has helped his punching power considerably. His chest has developed, as have his arms, through the exercises which Wilson has insisted upon, and five of his 20 victories were scored on knockouts.

Financially Joe has prospered. Thousand-dollar purses were unknown to him here, but he reached that figure for one of his bouts in the East, and now seems to be headed for even bigger things in the way of money. Three of his bouts were fought in Madison Square Garden—the real big league mecca for boxers. And he could have had more fights there had his manager cared to push him.

Wilson has been trying to line up a match for Joe in St. Louis to give his old friends a chance to see the new Ghnouly, but thus far has been unsuccessful. Joe hasn't given up hope, however, and is anxious to show his wares here.

St. Louis Boxer Is Coming Along

PIRATES' STRING OF SCORELESS INNINGS IS STOPPED AT 45

By J. Roy Stockton.

PITTSBURG, Aug. 4. — The Cardinals defeated the Pittsburg Pirates this afternoon in the first game of a series of three.

The score was 7 to 1.

The Cardinals ended the string of 45 scoreless innings of the Pirates' pitching staff in the sixth inning. Haines opened the inning with a single, Adams sacrificed but both runners were safe on Meine's fumble. Watkins tried to sacrifice and then doubled against the right field screen, scoring Haines. Two more runs crossed the plate before the Cards were retired.

The attendance was disappointing in view of the Pirates' recent record and the fact that the league champions were the attraction, not more than 3000 persons paid to see the contest.

Moran, Quigley and Clarke were the umpires, Clarke making his first appearance since he suffered an attack of tonsilitis in St. Louis after his row with John McGraw.

The series will conclude with a double header tomorrow, the Cardinals catching a train tomorrow evening for St. Louis, where they meet the Cubs Friday, Saturday and Sunday before starting on their final Eastern invasion.

The game:

FIRST INNING—CARDINALS—Meine threw out Adams. Watkins walked. Frisch flied to Jensen. Watkins was out stealing, Grace to Thevenow.

PITTSBURG—L. Waner singled to center. Jensen sacrificed, Haines to Bottomley. Grantham was out, Bottomley to Haines, who covered first, L. Waner moving to third. Traynor was called out on strikes.

SECOND—CARDINALS — Bottomley flied to P. Waner. Hafey walked. Martin tapped to Meine and Hafey was forced, Meine to Thevenow. Wilson forced Martin, Thevenow to Groskloss.

PITTSBURG—P. Waner fouled to Wilson. Gelbert's great stop and throw retired Groskloss. Grace flied to Martin.

THIRD — CARDINALS — Meine threw out Gelbert. Haines was called out on strikes. Thevenow threw out Adams.

PITTSBURG—Gelbert threw out Thevenow. Meine popped to Frisch. L. Waner beat out a bunt to Adams. Jenson bunted, but was thrown out by Adams.

FOURTH—CARDINALS— Watkins was called out on strikes. Frisch singled to right for the first hit off Meine. Bottomley popped to Traynor. Hafey struck out.

REDS MAKE FIRST RUN IN 46 INNINGS

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Aug. 4.—Guy Bush held the Cincinnati Reds to seven hits today as the Cubs took the first game of the double-header, but the Reds managed to score a run in the sixth inning to end their streak of 45 consecutive innings without a score. The final count was 4 to 2, it being Bush's tenth win of the year.

The Reds first tally occurred with two out in the sixth after Crabtree had singled and reached second Cuccinello walked and Clyde Beck then singled, scoring Crabtree. Doubles by Douthit and Crabtree brought in another in the seventh.

EAST AND WEST EQUALLY REPRESENTED ON WIGHTMAN CUP TEAM

SIX PLAYERS COMPOSE SQUAD; PLAY BEGINS NEXT FRIDAY

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Aug. 4.—The United States Lawn Tennis Association has decided to pin its hopes for an American victory in the Wightman Cup matches at Forest Hills Friday on six players, evenly split between the West and the East.

Mrs. Hazel Hotchkiss Wightman of Boston will lead the team, the other members of which will be Mrs. Helen Wills Moody of San Francisco; Helen Jacobs of Berkeley, Cal.; Mrs. Lawrence A. Harper of Oakland, Cal.; Marjorie Morrill of Dedham, Mass., and Mrs. Marion Zinderstein Jessup of Wilmington, Del.

Through a strange combination of circumstances only two members of the team are represented on the national ranking list, prepared on the basis of play in 1930. Mrs. Harper is the No. 1 ranking player and Miss Morrill the No. 2 but none of the others appears on the list of the 32 leading women stars. The answer, of course, lies in the fact that Mrs. Moody and Miss Jacobs, the natural No. 1 and No. 2 players, were not ranked after the 1930 season because of "insufficient data."

Two members of the team, Mrs. Harper and Miss Morrill, never before have participated in the Wightman Cup matches. Mrs. Moody, on the other hand, has been on every American team since the series was inaugurated in 1923 except in 1926 when illness kept her out of the competition. Miss Jacobs has been a member of the squad annually since 1927, Mrs. Wightman in 1923-24-27-29 and Mrs. Jessup in 1924 and 1926.

The order in which the American players will participate in singles and doubles will be announced tomorrow night and the draw for play against the British players will be revealed at the same time. The British team consists of Betty Nuthall, Mrs. Eileen Bennett Whittingstall, Mrs. Dorothy C. Shepherd-Barron, Phyllis Mudford and Dorothy Round.

Of the five singles matches that must be played, Mrs. Moody and Miss Jacobs are virtually certain of taking care of four.

OAKLAND CLUB TENNIS MEET IN THIRD ROUND

Third-round matches were being decided this week in the Oakland Tennis Club's annual tournament. Three of the men players already have gained the fourth round, Jack Plunkert, Waldo Browne and August Imholz.

Play in the women's event is in the second round and the club's champion, Hildegarde Glausner, is now in the third round, having drawn a bye for the first round. She then defeated Matha Whittake, 6—0, 6—4.

WRAY'S COLUMN

Think Again, Benny.

LITTLE JOE GIMOULY, who quit St. Louis almost unknown to fame and returned here for a vacation last week as the winner of 20 fights, brings with him another report, namely, that Benny Leonard, once the world's greatest lightweight, is preparing himself for a return to the ring as a welterweight.

At Orangeburg, N. Y., where Gus Wilson operates the most successful training camp for professional fighters in the country, Leonard has been working hard. It was here, under the wing of Wilson, that Joe was polished up to the point where he is now considered a real promising young featherweight. It was there also that Joe got his idea about Leonard. Joe tells about it as follows:

"No, Leonard did not tell me in so many words that he was coming back. But he is working constantly—every day. He is in good shape and he just makes suckers of all the other boys he boxes with.

"They all think at the camp that Benny will try to come back and I for one think that he can. If it's just a matter of boxing, he will. I don't know if he can take it and come back. But I don't think there's a man of his weight who can lay a glove on him in six rounds."

• • •

Can Box, but Not Fight.

WELL—that was Jim Corbett's way. When he was 45 years old there were few boxers who could touch him, in a sparring match. But in a fight—something else again.

The first rough handling takes something out of the old arms, legs and noodle. They don't coordinate. The knees buckle, the arms tire and the head doesn't clear from shocks, even though the enemy's blows do not land cleanly.

Benny isn't 45. He claims just 36, and that isn't an old man's years. But after having been out of the harness for half a dozen years, 36 is just about as bad as 63, for a comeback. Don't try it, Benny. And pass the same word along to Jack Dempsey, when you see him.

• • •

Gene Tunney Says—

"SCHMELING is a first-class fighter entitled to recognition as champion. He may not be sensational but he is an excellent workman with a fine short punch and stamina. Sharkey has shown nothing to warrant belief that he will ever be champion. He lacks inspiration.

"Walker is a dead game fighter. Carnera? Why comment on him?"

That's the ex-champion of the world broadcasting. Incidentally it's the same Tunney who, as champion, picked Tom Heeney as the most capable of all the heavyweights and the most deserving of a title match!

• • •

Well, we will say that Tunney picked well—for Tunney. The Hard Rock from Down Under has been as soft for almost everybody else as he was for Tunney.

• • •

Rather Chummy.

DISPATCHES carried a story that Mickey Walker is to battle Maurice Grisselle, the French boxer, at Monte Carlo, but there won't be much of a gamble about it, for Mickey. It's "in." Grisselle is just a fourth rater.

The interesting item in connection with the bout is that Max Schmeling is expected to referee the fight!

Imagine Bob Fitzsimmons, 35 years ago, letting Champion Jim Corbett referee a match for him, just before they were scheduled to fight for the title.

• • •

The old animosity has gone out of the fight game—and some of the FIGHT with it. Too much "friendly enemy" attitude about the encounters. That spirit is O K, for amateurs. But when practiced by professionals fans are apt to think that there is a more complete understanding.

You can't satisfy a corned beef and cabbage appetite with sponge cake.

• • •

Still Supreme.

THE standing of our men players in the international tennis world may not be so hot; but on the feminine side it's another story. Betty Nuthall came to the United States last year and took home our national championship. That was because Mrs. Helen Wills Moody was not competing and Mrs. Harper was our main reliance.

This year Mrs. Moody is back in the fray. Recently she defeated one of her strongest rivals, the husky Helen Jacobs, in straight sets without losing a game! And just before that she had defeated Mrs. Harper, who ranked No. 1 in America last year, with the loss of only one game. Four sets against the pick of the country, with a single game lost!

Beautiful Betty might as well give up hopes of defending her American title successfully.

There is some doubt about our success in the Wightman Cup matches as a whole, however. England has more good players than America and the United States team will be fortunate to turn back the British invaders next week.

• • •

Not the Same.

SUNDAY we quoted from the Manchester Guardian the result of a "baseball" game between Wales and England in which the scores ran far into two figures. Even football scores seldom reach such totals. It seemed to indicate a low stage of development in our national game, over there.

However, it isn't our game at all, but one indigenous to the British soil, according to an informant who writes as follows:

"Noticed in 'Wray's Column' Sunday about an international baseball game between Wales and England which produced 40 or 50 runs apiece. Baseball is played under different rules in England. All nine men must be out before a side is retired. Also, they play only two innings apiece. The game is popular around Manchester and Liverpool only. It is not played much anywhere else in England. American baseball is a different game altogether. The only thing they have in common is the name."

HURLEY BUYS A ST. PAUL BOXING CLUB; UNLIKELY TO RETURN HERE

Jack Hurley, boxing promoter and manager of Billy Petrolle and Charles Retzlaff, who was associated with Sam Slotsky in the promotion of two boxing cards here last spring, has bought the St. Paul Boxing Club from Jerk Doran for $5000 and will promote fights in St. Paul this winter, according to Slotsky.

Answering a telegram from the Post-Dispatch, Hurley left a loophole open for his return here, but did not commit himself definitely. His telegram reads:

"I am interested in several boxing clubs, but I have not definitely decided to abandon plan to promote at St. Louis. Will decide when the winter season opens.

"JACK HURLEY."

Slotsky, however, believes that his associate is through with promotions here.

Thus one of the shortest and most tempestuous careers of a boxing promoter in St. Louis seems to be closed for the time at least.

Hurley's chief worries in life are caused by boxing commissions and he had plenty of trouble, directly and indirectly with Seneca C. Taylor, Missouri Boxing Commissioner for the St. Louis district while he was here. Hurley and Taylor just couldn't agree on the number of passes a promoter should give out and at one time the argument waxed so warm that Taylor suspended Slotsky, who was then Hurley's matchmaker.

When Jack first appeared on the scene late last winter, everyone with whom he came in contact tried to dissuade him from entering the promotional field here, pointing out that this was a hard city for a boxing promoter to do business. He insisted that he liked tough spots and would show that he could succeed.

He arranged a match between John Schwake, Webster Groves heavyweight, and Johnny Risko of Cleveland, which proved successful and earned a little profit for Hurley.

Then he made up a card which he thought was imposing in which his own boxer, Petrolle, met Lope Tenorio, Johnny Jadick opposed Davey Abad and Max Schmeling appeared in an exhibition.

Taylor threw cold water on the Tenorio-Petrolle bout, claiming that Tenorio was not a proper opponent for Petrolle and although he later consented to the match the public wasn't interested and Hurley lost approximately $2800. He left St. Louis then to devote his time to his boxers but it was expected he would return here this winter and had held some preliminary negotiations relative to the rental of the Coliseum but apparently he decided he would stand a better chance for success in St. Paul where he would be among friends and probably have more influence at his command in the event of trouble with the boxing commission.

Slotsky plans to carry on here without Hurley and has signed Schwake to a contract for three bouts. The first one is scheduled for Aug. 21 and Slotsky is leaving for Akron, O., today to sign K. C. Christner. If Schwake is successful in that bout, Slotsky plans to bring in Tom Heeney and Jimmy Maloney later.

Harridge Calls A. L. Umpiring "Best in Years"

CHICAGO, Aug. 4.

PRESIDENT WILLIAM HARRIDGE of the American League is well satisfied with the umpiring in his organization. In fact, he believes it is the "best in years."

Harridge has just returned from a tour through the Eastern end of the circuit, made with Umpire-in-Chief Tom Connolly, for the purpose of checking up on the work of the arbiters.

"The American League now has the best umpiring I have seen in years," he said. "The players themselves apparently appreciate that fact, for in all the games in the East, there was not a protest against any decision by an umpire.

"Connolly has accomplished just what was expected of him when he was appointed chief of staff. From his own experience as an umpire he knows how to handle both the officials and players."

SPANISH FANCY SHOT EXPERT DISPLAYS FINE FORM IN EXHIBITION

Senor Isidro Ribas, Spanish billiard expert and fancy-shot maker, pleased the customers with his afternoon and evening exhibition and match play at Peterson's hall yesterday. At balkline he defeated E. F. Gibbons, 100 to 20, and at three-cushions he trimmed L. M. Dieckmeyer, 15 to 6, in the afternoon.

At night he beat E. S. Wills, 100 to 17, at balkline, but lost a three-cushion match to Gene Deardorff, 15 to 6. His fancy-shot exhibition proved him to be a real rival of Peterson's.

Today at 3 and 8 p. m. he will give other exhibitions.

We're at WAR RIGHT HERE!

Let's stop this terrible slaughter which is going on—RIGHT HERE—on the streets and highways of this country.

We're in a WAR . . . a war against recklessness and carelessness that killed 32,500 people last year and injured over 900,000 more.

Are you on the side of safety? If you are, come here to Silvertown Safety League Headquarters and sign up—lend your support to this national movement to reduce this ghastly toll of Death—to make the highways safe for you and your family.

Adopt the rules of the Silvertown Safety League Pledge as your own driving rules. These nine, common-sense rules were developed by the drivers of the famous Silver Fleet who have covered over FIVE MILLION MILES WITHOUT INJURY TO A SINGLE PERSON. The pledge has proved its ability to prevent accidents. Dozens are coming in and joining every day. Won't you come in, too? There is no cost. We will install a handsome chromium emblem on your car to show where you stand in this WAR against death-dealing recklessness.

This chromium emblem of the League is on hundreds of thousands of cars. Get yours here.

MY PLEDGE AS A MEMBER
THE SILVERTOWN SAFETY LEAGUE
I AGREE . . .

1. To drive at speeds in keeping with the safety of others as well as myself.
2. To keep on the right side of the road, except when passing.
3. To pass only when I know there are ample time and space—never on blind curves or when nearing the crest of a hill.
4. To go through intersections only when I have the right of way.
5. To observe all traffic signals.
6. To give signals myself that can be clearly seen and understood, before turning or stopping in traffic.
7. To drive only when in full possession of my faculties.
8. To keep my brakes, lights, and horn in good condition.
9. To operate my car on tires which assure a positive grip on the road—safe traction—and freedom from hazardous tire failures.

MEXICAN PESO ADVANCING

Withdrawals from Bank Partly Accountable for Rise.
By the Associated Press.

MEXCIO CITY, Aug. 4.—The silver peso came back to something like its normal relation to the dollar today when for the first time since the Calles monetary reform went into effect a week ago, it was quoted at less than three to one dollar. The Bank of Mexico was buying dollars at 2.75 this noon and some other banks were selling at 2.80.

The improvement is believed due largely to the rush of depositors to withdraw silver accounts from the Banco Nacional thus creating an unusual demand for silver and taking a large amount out of circulation. The bank continued paying depositors in full today and there appeared to be no danger that a run began this morning would close the bank. The Bank of Mexico has come to the support ofthe Banco Nacional.

WORLD FLYERS HELD IN SIBERIA BY BAD WEATHER

Pangborn and Herndon Hope to Continue but Have Abandoned Effort to Break Record.

WING REPAIRED AT KHABAROVSK

Next Leg of Journey Lies Across Sea of Okhotsk and Bering Sea to Nome, Alaska.

By the Associated Press.

TOKIO, Aug. 4.—In the face of unfavorable weather reports, Clyde Pangborn and Hugh Herndon Jr., American aviators, have not been able to set a definite time to take off from Khabarovsk, Siberia, for Nome, Alaska, in continuation of their attempt to fly around the world.

The flyers slept this forenoon in the Russian Aviation Society's building near the field at Khabarovsk, where they landed at 3:50 p. m. yesterday from Chita. Upon arising they scanned the sky, hopeful of resuming the flight this afternoon, but weather reports were against them.

The flight was delayed at Khabarovsk when a wing of the plane was damaged in landing. Pangborn and Herndon had intended to get away immediately after refueling, but decided to remain overnight in view of the damage to their plane. The wing was repaired.

At 9 a. m. today Herndon and Pangborn were about half a day behind the time of Post and Gatty.

The flyers lost considerable time in rain and fog on the hop from Chita to Khabarovsk. They declared the flight was the worst they experienced since leaving New York, July 27. They flew blindly much of the time and that over the Khingan Mountains. The distance from Chita to Khabarovsk is 950 miles.

"It was a wonder we found Khabarovsk at all," Pangborn said. "Finding our way was due not only to good luck, but to splendid navigation." Herndon is the navigator.

The flyers' route to Nome lies over the Sea of Okhotsk, around the tip of the mountainous Kamchatka Peninsula and across the stormy Bering Sea. Most of the course lies over water.

Post and Gatty flew virtually the entire distance of this leg of their record-breaking flight blindly. They encountered heavy fog all the way.

The flyers received several messages urging that they come to Tokio to start a non-stop flight across the Pacific, but, despite adverse weather reports and a soggy landing field at Khabarovsk, they had not changed their plans to start for Alaska as soon as the weather showed improvement.

This afternoon the flyers went sightseeing in the 300-year-old Siberian town. Khabarovsk is famous for its fur business, wind-driven flour mills and vodka distilleries.

Flyers Abandon Attempt to Break Post-Gatty Record.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Aug. 4.—Mrs. Hugh Herndon Jr. received a cable from her husband announcing he and Clyde Pangborn had abandoned their attempt to beat the Post-Gatty round-the-world flight record because a wing of their plane had been damaged. The message was sent from Khabarovsk.

By the Associated Press.

AMSTERDAM, Holland., Aug. 4—Five women and a boy were injured today when the Dutch Air Mail Liner from London crashed into a signal pole near the Waalhaven airdrome.

It had landed there with 13 passengers and had taken off for Amsterdam when the pilot decided to turn back because the engine was not running smoothly. In the second landing a wing hit the pole and the plane was wrecked.

INVASION OF BELGIUM MARKED

By the Associated Press.

BRUSSELS, Aug. 4.—The seventieth anniversary of the invasion of Belgium by the German army was commemorated throughout the country today.

At 9:30 a. m. a cannon shot gave the signal for the sounding of church bells, whistles and sirens for half a minute, followed by a minute of silence. It recalled to the population the same morning in 1914 when Gen. von Emmichs' troops crossed the Belgian frontier and distributed proclamations calling on the people to submit to the German ultimatum.

Negro Population Rate Increases Sharply; White Gain Less

Former Up 13.6 Pct. as Compared to 6.5 in Previous 10 Years, While Latter Goes Up 14.8 Pct. as Against to 16 Pct.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—Racial classification of the United States population was announced today by the Census Bureau, showing marked gain in Negro growth rate and a slight loss in white growth rate.

During the last decade, the Negroes increased by 13.6 per cent as compared with 6.5 per cent in the 10 years previous. The white race increased by 14.8 per cent as compared with 16 per cent the decade before.

Comparative figures were given as follows:

Color or Race.	April 1, 1930.	Jan. 1, 1920.	Per cent Increase
White	108,864,207	94,820,915	14.8
Negro	11,891,143	10,463,131	13.6
Mexican	1,422,533	700,541	103.1
Indian	332,397	244,437	36.0
Chinese	74,954	61,639	21.6
Japanese	138,834	111,010	25.1
Filipino	45,208	5,603	706.9
Hindu	3,130	2,507	24.9
Korean	1,860	1,244	52.0
All other	780	154	406.5

Even when adjustment was made for the approximately 700,000 Mexican population counted as "white" in 1920, the percentage of increase for the white population was only 15.7 per cent in 1930.

The Census Bureau said the white decline obviously was due to the falling of the birth rate and the restriction of immigration.

Nearly two-thirds of the entire Negro increase took place in the North, and the Census Bureau assumed that large numbers of Southern Negroes migrated northward. However, the Negroes in the Southern States increased by 5 per cent.

Georgia, only State with more than 1,000,000 Negroes in 1920, decreased by 11.2 per cent, and Virginia and South Carolina also lost. Mississippi gained by 8 per cent and became scond State with more than 1,000,000 negro population—1,009,718.

New York State gained by 108 per cent, making the Negro population 412,814; New Jersey by 78.3 per cent to 208,828; Pennsylvania by 51.5 per cent, to 431,257.

Highest in percentage of Negro gain was Michigan, 182 per cent, with a present Negro population of 169,453. Illinois gaining 80 per cent, now has 328,972 Negroes; Ohio with 66.1 per cent, has 309,304.

Because of the growing importance of the Mexican population, the Census Bureau said, it was given a separate classification for 1930, and by checking 1920 returns with country of birth the Mexican increase was shown to be more than 100 per cent.

The apparent increase of 36 per cent in the Indian population was said by the Census Bureau to "probably be accounted for in part by the more complete enumeration in 1930 of the Indians of mixed blood."

SAYS OVEROPTIMISM CAUSES DEPRESSION

Stuart Chase Says Business Should Be Content to Satisfy People's Wants.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Aug. 4.—If unemployment unrest this fall does not "upset the applecart," America may now anticipate a moderate business revival in the next 12 months, Stuart Chase, author and economist, said in an interview today.

Chase was one of the earlier prophets of the 1929 crash; and now, getting in early again, he foresees another economic debacle along about 1940 unless we accept quickly the lessons of the present depression.

"In the natural course of events, we will come out of this depression, and we may, in a few years, find ourselves in a boom that will make the late excitement seem like child's play," Chase said. "But then, we'll fall off the new prosperity brink with a crash that likely will break the remnants of the traditional 'laissez faire' economy into little bits.

"Things are cheap. Even now people are beginning to buy them because they are so cheap. If business merely satisfied these wants, the business cycle would lack the present sharp curves. But business people under the psychologic impetus of this new buying become overly optimistic and immediately begin to over-expand as they have in the past, and there you have the incipient causes of the next depression.

"There are seemingly two schools in American business whose leaders may be divided roughly into executives of an engineering tendency and the reactionary, high-profit-seeking, old-time boss.

"In the hands of these engineers lies the future of the capitalistic system. If they succeed in their desires to level out the general business curve, to earn smaller but steadier profits and to erase the evils of uncontrolled competition, then we may arrive at a planned system of economy that will save us forevermore from depressions.

"Certainly adjustment of the anti-trust acts is necessary before we can organize business efficiently. But the change of those acts to permit unification of various industries also means that those industries will become affected with the public good, and a measure of government supervision follows.

"Such unification is not synonymous with sacrifice of the individual nor is it complete socialism. It simply means the control of business in a society that has become so complex that the old methods will not work."

Forty-three years old, Chase is of the younger school of economists which prefers to regard economics in terms of human, and therefore changing, behavior, rather than as a strict science.

Germany Gets Argentine Corn.

By the Associated Press.

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, Aug. 4.—All records for single-day shipments of Argentine grain and linseed were broken yesterday, with a total of 141,512 tons, of which 108,778 were corn. The Herald learned negotiations were progressing favorably between the German Ministry of Agriculture and the Argentine legation in Berlin for Argentina to supply Germany with 500,000 tons of corn.

HOW FILLMORE 'SOLD' POTENTATE ON U. S.

His Flowery Message to Sultan of Muscat in 1851 Dug Up by State Department.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—A curious diplomatic document, written by President Fillmore in 1851 to the Sultan of Muscat, was made public by the State Department today, after being dragged out of musty files because of its comic opera style.

Acting Secretary Castle described it as "the most amazing diplomatic document I have read in a long time."

The note was addressed to Seyed Syeed Bin, Sultan of Muscat, a city on the eastern side of the Arabian Peninsula, and signed by President Fillmore and Daniel Webster, then Secretary of State.

Its apparent purpose was to get the Sultan's permission for American ships to enter ports of Zanzibar, a Muscat province, and President Fillmore went to great pains to impress the Sultan with the power and importance of this country. He told of "many hundred ships belonging to this great nation which now float over all seas," and said he would "order them frequently to stop at Zanzibar and inquire after your health."

Wonders of the United States.

Fillmore pictured the wonders of his land in flowery language, saying:

"From the region of ice which bounds the United States on the north to the flowery land of the orange on the south; is a journey of 100 days, and from the eastern shores, which receive the first beams of the rising sun, to those on the west, where rest his setting rays, is 150 days' journey, and this immense country is not a sandy waste, but filled with populous cities, traversed by mighty rivers and crowned with lofty mountains.

"By railroad or in steamboats the citizens of this immense country pass from one place to another with inconceivable rapidity. From the seat of government at Washington I send my commands in a few minutes by the lightning telegraph, to all parts of the United States; and they are obeyed."

State Department experts believe President Fillmore was aided in preparation of the note by some one familiar with the Sultan's country because it was filled with Mohammedan phrases.

The note was addressed "to our great and good friend, his majesty Seyed Syeed Bin, Sultan of Muscat and its dependencies," and throughout the letter the Sultan was addressed as such.

MOSCOW CATHEDRAL BEING WRECKED BY ORDER OF SOVIET

Auditorium to Be Built on Site of Golden-Dome Church.

By the Associated Press.

MOSCOW, Aug. 4.—The destruction of the Cathedral of the Redeemer, one of Russia's largest and most imposing churches, has begun to make way for the building of a great auditorium to be known as the Palace of the Soviets.

The last services were held in the church Aug. 1 and the work of wrecking was started immediately. Almost overnight a board fence 20 feet high sprang up around the entire park in the center of which the cathedral stands and now no one may observe the work at close hand.

From the street, however, the workmen may be seen. One of the first portions of the structure to be attacked by the wrecking crews was the great gilded dome which is surrounded by four smaller ones.

Seventy pounds of gold, it is said, were used in finishing the dome and this seems to be borne out by the care exercised in peeling off part of the covering. The bottom half of this dome is now nothing but bare steel framework, but the top portion still glitters in the sun.

North of the cathedral for several city blocks, and eastward to the Moscow River, a section housing old large apartments and a little red church supposed to be the oldest in Moscow is also to be razed. Thus several acres will be made available for a new convention hall where all large congresses of Soviet agencies will be held.

The plans are incomplete, but work is expected to begin late in the fall.

24-HOUR STRIKE IN CUBA; 40,000 WORKMEN AFFECTED

30 Unions Backing Street Car Men Who Walked Out After Pay Cut.

By the Associated Press.

HAVANA, Aug. 4.—A 24-hour strike, expected to involve 40,000 or more workmen affiliated with the Cuban National Labor Confederation, got under way at one minute past midnight.

A bomb set off here shortly before the zero hour broke windows in nearby buildings and damaged the streets. There were no arrests.

Labor leaders said about 30 unions would take part in the strike, called in support of striking street car men and in protest against imprisonment of workmen and Government restriction of meetings.

Twenty-four hundred motormen and conductors walked out Friday, protesting against wage reductions. Partial operation of cars during the day has been made possible by the Havana Electric Railway Co.'s employment of some 400 new men.

Dr. Octavio Zubizarreta, Interior Secretary, told the Associated Press the strike was backed by communist influence.

SUSPENSION OF PAYMENTS BY MEXICO CITY BANK APPROVED

Closed Spanish Depository Gets 15 Days in Which to Reach Agreements With Creditors.

By the Associated Press.

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 4.—The Credito Espanol de Mexico, important Spanish bank which closed its doors yesterday, obtained authorization from District Court today to declare a 15-day suspension of payments and place its affairs in the hands of a liquidating committee.

The committee will seek to reach an agreement with the bank's creditors to enable the bank to resume business before the period is up.

Closing of the Credito Espanol was followed by a run on the Banco Nacional de Mexico, one of the strongest in the country, but it was able to withstand the rush, paying its depositors in full.

MUSCLE SHOALS BOARD TO OFFER PLANT FOR LEASE

Bids to Be Received Sept. 1 for Operation of Works in Interest of Fertilizer Production.

By the Associated Press.

FLORENCE, Ala., Aug. 4.—The Muscle Shoals Commission will receive proposals in Washington Sept. 1 for lease and operation of Muscle Shoals "in the interest of fertilizer production and of agriculture."

Chairman Sam F. Hobbs of Selma., Ala., made the announcement last night after the commission's organization meeting. Simultaneously, Edward A. O'Neal, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation, announced his organization would submit a bid for lease of the entire Muscle Shoals project.

General policies with reference to disposition of the $150,000,000 nitrate plant and hydro-electric development were discussed by the commission at its meeting here.

In his announcement last night, Chairman Hobbs said:

"The Muscle Shoals Commission appointed by the President and the Legislature of Tennessee and the Governor of Alabama will on Sept. 1, 1931, at 10 a. m., receive at 1734 New York avenue, Washington, D. C., proposals in writing for the leasing and operation of the Muscle Shoals project to be operated in the interest of fertilizer production and of agriculture * * * together with any proposals that any concern desires to make with regard to projects up river above Muscle Shoals, or the benefits to be derived therefrom by the Muscle Shoals project, with a view to submitting such proposals or proposals to the President of the United States for submission to Congress."

Only one of the nine members of the commission failed to attend yesterday's organization meeting, W. H. Smith of Prattville, Ala.

Thomas H. Green of the Judge Advocate-General's department, was elected secretary of the commission.

O'Neal declined to amplify his statement regarding submission of a bid on the project pending the formal action.

A series of hearings to give all interested parties opportunity to appear before the Muscle Shoals Commission will be held in Alabama and Tennessee this month. These hearings will be conducted by sub-committees of the commission. Dates will be announced later.

PLANS OF BOARDMAN-POLANDO

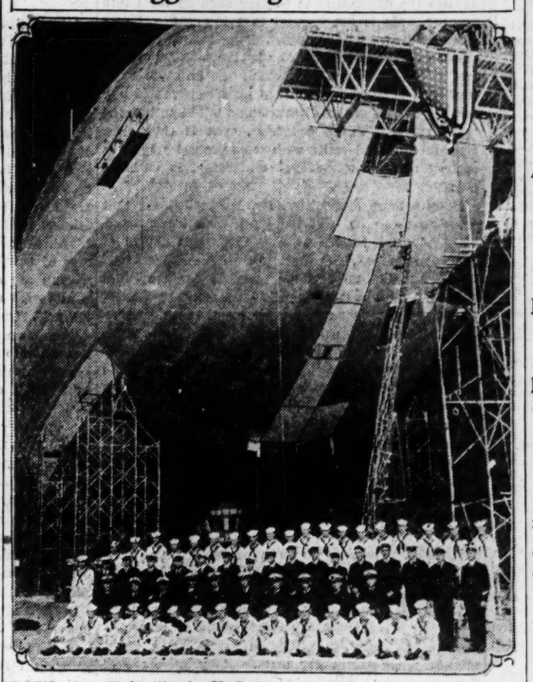

Flyers Soon to Decide on Their Next Destination.

By the Associated Press.

ISTANBUL, Turkey, Aug. 4.—Russell Boardman and John Polando, American-Turkey airmen, still declined to disclose plans for continuing their journey today, but an authoritative source said they probably would reach a definite decision tonight.

It was said unofficially that they had considered flying to Tokio, but had abandoned the plan because of the difficulty of taking off from the Istanbul aviation field with a heavy load of fuel. They were also credited with intending to leave Friday if atmospheric conditions are favorable for a destination yet to be decided.

Yuzhamtorg will not be authorized to engage in further trading operations, it was said, but its employes under police supervision will be allowed to execute contracts signed previous to the raid last Friday and to embark or receive merchandise bought or sold before that time.

GERMANY TAKES CONTROL OF ALL BANKS IN NATION

Action of Government Regarded as Move to Establish Faith in Currency at Home and Abroad.

BRUENING MAKES REPORT TO PEOPLE

In Radio Talk, Chancellor Praises Public Calmness Regrets Loss of Time on Hoover Plan.

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, Aug. 4.—The German Government has decided to place all banks under Government control, it was learned today.

A special officer in the Reichsbank probably will be vested with power to supervise the banks of the nation.

This decision of the Government is regarded as a further effort toward the re-establishment of confidence in German currency at home and abroad.

Chancellor Bruening, speaking over a nationwide radio hookup, tonight gave a full report of the events of the last few weeks, including his journey to Paris with Foreign Minister Curtis, the seven-Power conference at London and the measures the Government has taken since he returned. A translation of the speech was broadcast to the United States.

"The German people have borne the heavy afflictions which have affected all classes with exemplary quiet," he said, "thereby proving a natural sense of order and leadership which has met with the deserved approval of the whole world."

In view of that, he said, the people are entitled to know just what the Government has been doing,

Flaws in Our Banking Structure.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

THE banking troubles in Chicago, the recent strictures of Melvin A. Traylor on the call money rate as the dominant factor in our money market and the criticism by the American Bankers' Association of the recommendations of Mr. Pole with respect to branch banking, again bring into relief one of the fundamental weaknesses of our banking system: the division of power and authority among several agencies. Such division can but result in a hesitating and vacillating policy, utterly failing to give any leadership or direction.

We have two commercial banking systems, the national and the state—the former under the supervision of the Comptroller of the Currency, the latter under that of the superintendents of banking of the different states. Here are two competing jurisdictions. When one of these sets up salutary restraints, a bank desirous of pursuing the primrose path need only surrender its charter and put itself under the jurisdicion allowing it more latitude. The existence of these dual and competing systems, as was forcibly brought out at the recent hearing before the Glass Committee, leads to continual encroachment of commercial banks on the field of investment, and makes for unsound methods.

It is conceded, for example, that the linking of security affiliates with commercial banks is fraught with elements of grave danger and that, at least so far as the national banks are concerned, these affiliates are of doubtful legality. But, as Mr. Wiggin of the Chase National Bank testified recently, any restrictions on the national banks which would hamper them in forming such affiliates, would place them at a disadvantage in competing with the state banks.

Again, while national banks in central reserve cities (New York and Chicago) were not allowed to lend on real estate of any kind, the state banks were not so limited. In order to equalize the competitive position, the McFadden Act in 1927 removed the ban on such loans by national banks in those cities, and also "liberalized" the provisions regarding real estate in other national banks. The result is a serious inroad on the liquidity of the entire banking structure. It was the real estate loans of the Foreman-State National Bank in Chicago that led to its undoing.

These are only two of the many instances of the injurious effects of two competitive banking systems.

The principal function of central banking machinery is to govern the volume of credit. This it can accomplish, unless abnormal gold movements intervene, through its rediscount rate. This should be the master rate, all other rates for short term funds moving parallel with it. But early in 1929 this power was snatched from the reserve system by the Stock Exchange with its call money rate, which dragged all other rates upward with it, not only for credit, but also for capital for short term as well as long term funds. The reserve system stood by helpless. Wall Street flouted it and jeered at it.

After the Federal Reserve Board of New York finally raised its rate to 6 per cent, in August, 1929, the Wall Street Journal could say: "Raising the rediscount rate to 6 per cent means very little to Wall Street, so far as money itself is concerned. Money rates in the street have been out of line with the old 5 per cent discount rate for more than a year. If the discount rate had been continued at 5 per cent, money would be just as high as it will be with a 6 per cent discount rate; call money and time money will be neither dearer nor cheaper under the new order of things. With call money ranging between 8 per cent and 12 per cent, and time money around 9 per cent, brokers say it makes very little difference whether the discount rate is 6 per cent or 5 per cent—Wall Street will be the big source of employment of idle funds so long as lenders can get a return of 8 per cent to 12 per cent."

The article concludes exultantly, "It is a new order of things that will be better understood as time passes." (Wall Street Journal, Aug. 16, 1929).

True, the Stock Exchange rate cannot affect the volume of credit, but on the velocity of credit its influence may become dominant, as amply shown by our riotous experience of 1928 and 1929. And in its inflationary effect, increase in velocity is as potent as increase in volume.

The power to put a brake on inflation is divided, then, between the reserve system and the Stock Exchange.

The two principal weapons of reserve system action are in the rediscount rate and open market operations. The events of 1927 to 1930 show that the Federal Reserve Board wields one and the Federal Reserve banks, led by the New York bank, wield the other. Here again is an unfortunate dualism of power.

Surely, whoever it was that said the reserve system was the only agency in our Government not subject to the system of checks and balances characterizing American political institutions, made no close examination of the banking structure.

A CONSTRUCTIVE TARIFF PROPOSAL

In a statesmanlike speech at the opening of the Williamstown Institute of Politics last Thursday, Newton D. Baker suggested an approach to the problem of tariff revision that deserves careful consideration.

Mr. Baker is in favor of some international agreement for the lowering of tariffs, but he frankly recognizes the difficulties in putting such an ideal into practice. He is not hopeful that international conferences can accomplish much along this line by discussion of particular rates or by formulation of general policies for tariff reduction. As he says: "The confusion incident to a general tariff revision in any country is sufficiently discouraging, but simultaneous tariff revision in all countries, even if they were attempted in conformity with some general principles arrived at by international conference, is unthinkable."

Despite these difficulties, Mr. Baker believes that something can be achieved by international agreement. "But it is still possible to suggest a plan of gradual approach," he says. "We once had a tariff in the United States which provided for a gradual reduction to a maximum of 20 per cent by annual horizontal reductions in all schedules, containing, as originally enacted, a duty in excess of this amount. This seems to me to hold out a very practical suggestion." He suggests that agreement could be made for the general adoption in all countries of legislation, "making horizontal reductions in all schedules, to go into effect simultaneously, at definite rates over periods of years, calculated to permit the effect of the reductions to be absorbed by domestic readjustments."

Mr. Baker's proposal also has much to commend it as an approach to tariff revision in the United States, even in the absence of any international agreement. There seems to be a fairly general opinion in the United States that a downward revision of our tariff rates would be desirable. But it does not follow that the legislative procedure of revision would be simple. The tariff creates a vast network of subsidies, resulting in some vested interests in practically every state. Many members of Congress, both Democratic and Republican, who on general principles are opposed to high tariffs, and who voted against the Hawley-Smoot bill, nevertheless sought tariff increases on the products of their constituents during the discussion of that bill.

That may not be the highest form of devotion to principles, but it is part of the working of politics under a system of popular government. Any program for general tariff revision at the present time would meet serious difficulties. Congressional supporters of tariff reductions would undoubtedly be embarrassed by constituents who would insist that reduction be confined to the other fellow's products, and protectionist Congressmen would certainly capitalize this situation in order to discredit the whole movement for revision. An inkling of the developments that such political maneuvering might take is seen in the challenges which Senators Watson, Smoot and Dickinson recently issued, asking Senators Harrison and Robinson and other Democrats in Congress whether they favored reductions on certain particular products, including the products of Mississippi and Arkansas. President Cleveland's attempts at tariff reform in 1894 were partly nullified by the Democratic "sugar Senators," who insisted as their price for the support of the bill that sugar "be looked out for."

The proposal for a moderate and gradual horizontal reduction of rates, without attempting to touch particular rates, has greater possibilities for constructive achievement. This would not preclude action at some later date, when the desire to make political capital out of the tariff is not so intense as at present, to make adjustments in particular rates, as was done under President Wilson's leadership in the enactment of the Underwood tariff of 1913.

MAPPING OUR LANGUAGE.

An absorbingly interesting piece of research on a truly national scale is being undertaken by the American Council of Learned Societies in its compilation of a linguistic atlas of the United States. Starting in New England this month, the first of its dialect collectors will begin platting a language map of the nation, expected to be 10 years in the making. An inkling of the immensity of the task ahead of Dr. Hans Kurath, the director, and his assistants is contained in his statement: "In some words there are from 1500 to 2000 variable features which may be shown in inflection, vocabulary, spelling or a common use in a set phrasing." It is good to know standardization will not be the project's aim. Missouri and Illinois will continue to have their porches and Boston its stoops. What some localities call verandas and piazzas will still be Mount Vernon's portico and the gallery of the Old Kentucky Home. The Cumberland River ferryman's "leave out" will be recognized no less than his Northern kinsman's accepted opposite, "come in." In the matter of pronunciation, the same broadness will exist. Evidently the compilers have accepted Justice Holmes' definition of right, namely, that which gets itself accepted. Such a painstaking work as this atlas of our language should be not only a valuable contribution to the study of American life, but as well a means to preserving the many-sided charm of sectional linguistic differences.

STATE RIGHTS IN CATALONIA.

The overwhelming vote cast in Catalonia Sunday for autonomy within the new Spanish Republic was inevitable, in the long view of history. Its causes go back more than 1000 years, to the time when these hardy mountaineers drove out the invading Moors after a brief occupation while the remainder of Spain had Mohammedan rule almost continuously for centuries thereafter. Catalonia, conquered by the Franks, produced a people different in race, language and culture from the sections of Spain where the Moors held sway. The result was a fervent Catalonian nationalism that asserted itself in long wars with Castile and in centuries of opposition to centralized rule. Spanish Kings fed the flames by repressing this minority, and each succeeding regime has had to put down insurrections there.

Catalonia is a thriving industrial and agricultural region, centered about Barcelona. Its inhabitants object to paying the bulk of taxes for the upkeep of other and less progressive sections. Severance from Spain, urged by many Catalonian patriots after the revolution, would have created tariff wars and friction in a new Balkan region, with probably disastrous results to Spanish and European peace in general. Refusal of autonomy by the Cortes, still a possibility, would continue the long history of repression and revolt. What Catalonia now has voted for is state rights only a little greater than those enjoyed in this country. The Basque provinces and Galicia have similar aspirations. Spain can serve her people best by extending those rights to the strongly nationalistic regions, if the new Government is to live up to its primary principles of liberty for all the people.

DEPRESSION ON THE SEA.

Tourist travel from this country to Europe has declined more than 25 per cent from the figures of last summer. More than 40 sailings, on both sides of the ocean, have been canceled, at the normal peak of the season. Passenger rates have been cut 10 to 30 per cent, effective Aug. 17, in an effort to stimulate business. Ocean greyhounds are playing the role of Mississippi River excursion craft, putting out from New York for brief cruises to sea and back. Directors of world tourist agencies, meeting in Paris, are forced to announce that the 1931 season is a failure. Only one passenger line, the North German Lloyd, showed a profit in 1930. More than 2,250,000 tons of British shipping are idle, and 45,000 British seamen are out of work. Ocean freight rates have been forced down to a point 20 per cent lower than the 1913 figure.

This is an outline of what the economic depression has done to those who follow the sea. It is a depressing picture, but of a piece with what has been transpiring on land. It affects not only those who own ships and those employed in the industry, but the income of Europe as well. Mr. Hoover pointed out in 1928 that the money spent annually in Europe by Americans was sufficient to pay the annual war debt installments. The total expended abroad last year was about $325,000,000, and debt payments in the same period totaled $241,000,000. The reduction this year to approximately $215,000,000 in tourist expenditures would have added to the difficulty of meeting the payments. The moratorium proposal came in time to relieve the situation.

Shipbuilding in this country is booming, with an increase of 381 per cent over work under way in 1928. France, Sweden, Italy and Denmark also show gains. In England, the chief shipbuilding country, activity is 44.2 per cent below that of 1928. This country's shipbuilding, however, is not keeping pace with scrapping. Between 1922 and 1930 our shipyards built 600,000 gross tons, and 1,500,000 tons of obsolete vessels were junked in that time. To those observers who assert that shipping is in the doldrums because of a tonnage surplus, this is a favorable sign. The cancellation of plans for several more gigantic liners may be similarly catalogued as of hopeful omen. Resumption of international trade, hampered at present both by tariff walls and economic depression, is anxiously awaited by one of man's most ancient enterprises.

MONTE M. LEMANN, DISSENTER.

There is no browbeating this fellow, Monte L. Lemann, of New Orleans, the South's representative on the Wickersham Commission. When it comes to the courage of his convictions in the matter of dissenting opinions, he belongs in only one set and that is with Martin Luther, Oliver Cromwell, Holmes and Brandeis. As his fellow commissioners full well know, it was he who threw a monkey wrench into the prohibition report by refusing to sign. He declared sufficient enforcement sentiment did not exist and came out flat-footedly for repeal. More recently, he refused to add his name to the report on prosecution. His rather plain-spoken reason was that the research into the subject was not sufficient to justify the conclusions. Now comes the report on police, and, as before, Mr. Lemann's signature is missing—this time without so much as an explanation. No one except Mr. Hoover knows just what he expected in Monte M. Lemann, but all the country knows what he got.

THE NAUTILUS AND CAPONE.

The Nautilus docked at Bergen on Saturday, Aug. 1, which, as Sir Hubert Wilkins writes, is two and a half months later than the date of May 17, on which it was originally scheduled to reach that point. Nothing daunted by the vexatious delays, the sturdy craft will point her prow toward Spitzbergen in a few days, and crew and captain are equally confident of presently bobbing up through the ice where the North Pole sways in the breeze.

Another voyager, as widely if less favorably known than the explorer, has been duplicating Sir Hubert's progress in getting nowhere. It was in blossomy May, wasn't it, that Al Capone pleaded guilty, acknowledged the supremacy of the law and declared himself ready to pay his debt to the Government. Following the plea, the date set for sentencing the penitent was June 30, but a postponement to July 30 was granted to enable the criminal to get his affairs in order. Now the plea of guilty has been withdrawn, because, seemingly, the court had not been advised of the arrangements between Capone's counsel and the Department of Justice, and the entire business of presenting the evidence to another grand jury, procuring fresh indictments and conducting the prosecution will apparently have to be undertaken.

Is it a slower and harder job to send a confessed gangster to prison in the United States than to plow under the Arctic ice to the North Pole? That is the question posed by the summer of 1931—a question that humiliatingly reiterates Mr. Taft's oft-quoted verdict that "our criminal jurisprudence is a national disgrace."

"LIKE KINGS."

Bernard Shaw is slipping. Asked how he and his party were treated in Soviet Russia he replied, "Like kings." A trite, stale, shopworn simile. This man of letters, with the gift for the unhackneyed word, could produce only a creaking commonplace that was an antique when Tut was in his 'teens.

And this prehistoric Shavianism was offensively inept, too, to his recent hosts. Bewildering and confused as the world's emotions are regarding Russia, everybody knows how the comrades feel toward kings. To them a crowned head is the most inviting target to shoot at. They have bleached the last trace of purple from their spectrum. They may look upon the rich man as a good deal of a wart, a patent of nobility as something to toss into the river, but their favorite sport is putting royalty to sleep forever as fast as ever they can.

When the folks at Moscow read that they entertained Mr. Shaw and Lady Nancy and the rest of them "like kings," they'll gnash their teeth, pull their whiskers out in handfuls, rip the portieres of the Kremlin with Slavic curses and mutually resolve that that chap Shaw is a fatheadski.

ONE OF THE FEW BOUQUETS SENT OUT.

Russia in Transition

Introduction of piece-rate wage system is far from Communist principles, but it is necessary step in transition from agricultural to factory economy; stimulation of production expected; return to favor of middle-class Soviet engineers essential for completion of five-year plan; earlier credo being sacrificed to complete task.

From the Manchester Guardian Weekly.

THE new principles which are to govern the organization of industry and the payment of wages in Russia have not been left long without practical application. Orders have been given from Moscow that a piece-rate system of wages is to be introduced into the coal-mining industry in the Donetz basin of South Russia. The reason given is that the production of this industrial group is so low that it has fallen short by 35 per cent of the figure assigned to it in the five-year plan, whereas other sections of industry have already completed their first task and passed on to the next.

The introduction of piece rates is closely connected with the five-year plan, but it is not so much a consequence of its failure as an obvious method of carrying it out. It is, indeed, a necessary consequence of that plan, which aims at the rapid industrialization of the almost entirely agricultural country of Russia.

* * *

Piece rates and other forms of payment by results are, after all, not a sudden new departure in Russian industry. They are already in existence in many trades, and their present extension is only a recognition of their success in stimulating production. Admittedly neither piece rates nor wage rates heavily weighted in favor of skilled workers are compatible with Communist theory, which is based on the old slogan, "From each according to his ability; to each according to his need." They are, however, a necessary piece of machinery for the change-over from a peasant, agricultural economy to a factory system.

The peasant has all his life been accustomed to a direct relation between his output of energy and his income of wealth. If he only sows one acre he can only reap one acre's crops; if he allows his horse to starve he will have to drag his own cart to market. But when he enters a factory, there is no such direct connection between industry and reward. He may work slowly or badly, but he will draw his wages just the same, unless there is some system of fines or piece rates. It has been the experience of all countries in this state of transition, and it is today the experience of Russia. The new departure in Soviet policy is only remotely connected with Communism, but is closely connected with conditions peculiar to Russia.

* * *

The history of the great tractor factory at Stalingrad, on the Volga, is a clear illustration of the kind of difficulty with which Russia's rulers are faced. The equipment of the factory is excellent, but its production has been not only disappointing, but by ordinary standards definitely uneconomic, so far has it fallen below productive capacity. Bad workmanship and faulty technical leadership combined to play havoc with one of the brightest examples of Soviet economic achievement. The shortage of skilled labor has long been admitted by the Soviet Government, and the very favored position of the artisan class is due not only to political expediency, but also to the natural bargaining power which it enjoys in virtue of its small numbers and essential functions.

In so far as there is anything really new in Stalin's latest industrial program, it lies in the prospect of better treatment offered to the old Russian middle-class technical experts, a concession which follows strangely on the propaganda which surrounded the recent treason trials of members of this despised class.

* * *

For the time being, at any rate, the rulers of Russia have overcome their political hatred for their own middle-class engineers sufficiently to give them back their jobs. It was necessary to do so if the five-year plan was to be carried through. For a similar reason, they have dispensed with many members of the unwieldly governing bodies which controlled industrial production. These latter played a useful part in persuading the ordinary worker that by simple proletarian loyalty he might hope to rise in the world, but from an economic point of view were definitely a nuisance. And so "they must be sent back to the factories. This will be better for them and better for us." This must been a distasteful decision for either a proletarian or a bureaucrat to make—and Russia's rulers are both.

What, then, is the outcome of this gradual change in Russian life which has now been solemnly blessed by the dictator himself? For the ordinary worker, no doubt, his factory will become very much more like an ordinary capitalist institution. He will, one imagines, be very much more definitely under business orders than he has been, while his freedom of choice of work will be still further restricted. He will become more than ever the servant of the state, and in addition, he will be economically divided from his fellow servants by marked differences in pay.

But he will be the servant of a state which is theoretically and, to some extent in practice, a workers' state. Outside the factory he will be as good as any other man, although perhaps he will not be able to procure quite as much food or as many new boots as his better-paid neighbor. For the time being, however, the proposed radical differences in wage rates are not likely to lead to marked external differences in class, if only because, though some people will have more money than others, there will not be much to spend it on. That is another consequence of the five-year plan, which concentrates on producing machines to build other machines, instead of on machines to produce such consumable goods as gramophones and silk stockings.

Communism, or indeed any tolerable life for the mass of the people, is only possible in an industrialized state. Everything, therefore, including equality of wages and present amenities, is being sacrificed to the aim of high-speed industrialization. These sacrifices are now necessary, but a time may come when Russia has been industrialized and the factories are able to start producing consumable goods on a large scale. When this has been achieved, will it then, at last, be possible to revert to the "equality" which is the essence of Communism, or will "inequality," in virtue of its great practical economic advantages, have taken so firm a hold that the rulers of Russia will find themselves farther than ever from the goal of their desires?

WASHINGTON DAY BY DAY

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.

THE United States Senate, as a body, is slow to make changes, and clings to its traditions. The sand dusters, for example, exclusively in use in the olden days for the drying of freshly written ink, still adorn each Senator's desk. Although now each Senator is supplied with an abundance of blotting paper, almost daily these sand dusters are used after writing a check or signing a card of entrance to the gallery for some friend or constituent.

But it is perhaps in connection with women that the Senate's love for the old order of things is more easily seen. Granting privileges of the floor to women, not so long ago a practically unheard of thing, is still jealously guarded. A by no means aged attache of the Senate is authority for the statement that until a few years ago the only woman he ever saw in the chamber was a witness in an impeachment trial.

* * *

WHEN Lady Astor of England, a duly elected member of Parliament (and members of foreign Parliaments are permitted on the floor of the Senate), visited the Capitol about 10 years ago, question arose as to whether she could come into the chamber. However, she was escorted in on the arm of Senator Swanson of Virginia.

Even as late as last year, there was some discussion as to whether women experts on silk and rayon from the Tariff Commission should be admitted when these schedules were under consideration in the tariff bill. They, too, were admitted.

Women clerks to several of the Senate committees come in occasionally, but make it a practice not to stay long. Miss Cora Rubin, clerk to the Foreign Relations Committee, which is supposed to harbor many great state and international secrets, is one. Mrs. Martha Gold, clerk to the Rules Committee and aid to Senator Moses of New Hampshire, is another.

* * *

OF course, the gentlewomen of the House are accorded privileges to the floor, and some are seen there frequently. Mrs. Ruth Bryan Owen and Mrs. Mary Norton visit the most, perhaps.

Only one woman has ever sat as a member of the Senate—Mrs. Rebecca Felton of Georgia, appointed by Gov. Hardwick to succeed temporarily to the place left vacant by the death of Senator Tom Watson. Senator George of Georgia stepped aside that this distinction might be given to Mrs. Felton as the first woman ever to sit in the Senate.

Incidentally, the only decoration which has ever been permitted in the Senate chamber as a permanent fixture is the handiwork of a woman. It is a silk American flag, presented by Mrs. J. M. Terelle of Savannah, Ga., in Vice President Marshall's time. Since its presentation, it has hung continuously behind the president's dais.

GREAT CHANCE FOR VOLUNTEERS.

From the Buffalo (N. Y.) Courier-Express.

THERE would seem to be a great opportunity for strikebreakers to break up the strike of the French wine tasters who are not satisfied with less than full glasses of samples.

IN THE PROLOGUE.

Prince Alexis Orloff ..... Guy Robertson
Prince Palinski, his uncle ..... Hal Forde
Ivan Panin ..... Joseph Wilkins

IN THE PLAY.

Princess Fedora Palinska ..... Gladys Baxter
"Mr. X" ..... Guy Robertson
Prince Sergius ..... George Hassell
Ivan Panin ..... Joseph Wilkins
Tony Schlumberger ..... Jack Good
Fritzi Burgstaller ..... Doris Patston
Stanislavsky ..... Robert Long
Pinelli ..... Hal Scott
Baron Saskusin ..... Hal Forde
Baron Petroff ..... Charles Chesney
Frau Schlumberger ..... Connie Graham
Pelican, a head waiter ..... Bernard Gorcey
Marta, a barmaid ..... Greta Alpeter

By H. H. NIEMEYER.

TANBARK and tinsel, bareback riders and circus clowns, royalty and the hoi polloi, romance, drama and some very funny low comedy well mixed furnished a great amount of entertainment for a large Municipal Opera audience last night when "The Circus Princess," one of the hits of last summer, came back to be the last offering, but one, of the present season. With Guy Robertson returning to the cast to sing the leading role of "Mr. X," the Prince who becomes a circus rider when adversity overtakes him, and with Gladys Baxter as the Princess who weds him, Emmerich Kalman's pleasing music was splendidly sung and the comedy was safe in the hands of George Hassell, as a pompous Russian General; Doris Patston as a circus dancing girl and Jack Good as a pretending son of an Archduke. In the last of the three acts Bernard Gorcey, a comedian of the burlesque school, came into the picture and entirely dominated the show, keeping the audience in roars of laughter through the final part of the evening. He was assisted, too, by Connie Graham, who also made a late appearance and the romantic music drama was turned into enjoyable musical comedy. Gorcey had the role of Pellican, a head waiter at a Vienna cafe, a part which he was brought on to play last summer when "The Circus Princess" was presented for the first time in St. Louis. It may be remembered that he ran away with the show on that occasion as well.

Briefly the story is about one Prince Orloff, a young Russian who is disinherited when he dares to poke fun at the idea of his wealthy and aged uncle marrying the charming Princess Fedora. Orloff becomes a masked marvel with a circus after that and meets and loves the girl his uncle married, the old man having died meanwhile. A revengeful and unsuccessful suitor of the Princess, looking for revenge, introduces her to the mysterious circus star but introduces him as a great Prince. The pair are married and then the revengeful one discloses that the high-born Princess has really wed a bareback rider. tI takes another act to straighten things out and bring about the usual happy finale.

Both Mr. Robertson and Miss Baxter were in fine voice last night and Miss Patston was most pleasing in a light role. A ballet number led by Rosemary Deering was delightful and the Davenport Troupe of real circus riders furnished the proper atmosphere of the Big Top part of the story.

Next Monday night Ziegfeld's splendid entertainment, "Rio Rita," one of the finest musical shows the stage has ever seen, will begin a two weeks' run to wind up the 1931 season of shows in Forest Park.

ALL-BRAN BROUGHT WELCOME RELIEF

THOUSANDS of letters attest to the efficiency of Kellogg's ALL-BRAN in overcoming constipation. For instance, Mr. James D. McEnery, Alto, Texas, relates his experience:

"For fifteen years I was constantly bothered with constipation. . . . Some eighteen months ago, I began using Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. From the first week to this good day, I have never had to take a dose of laxative medicine of any description."

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is the largest-selling all-bran cereal in the world. Two tablespoonfuls daily are guaranteed to give relief. How much safer than using habit-forming laxatives.

ALL-BRAN also adds needed iron to build the blood. In the red-and-green package at your grocer's. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

GERMANY TAKES CONTROL OF ALL BANKS IN NATION

even more so since the Reichstag "with statesmanlike vision" refused to call an extra session.

Referring to President Hoover's "historical action" in offering the world a moratorium plan, he reminded the nation that even then he had warned against the illusion that easy times were ahead for Germany.

"Events have proved that I was right," he said. Then he reviewed briefly the financial disaster which overtook Germany soon after President Hoover announced his plan.

The Hoover plan, he said, was realized in its essentials, but he expressed regret that time had been lost over its adoption. The events which followed its adoption, he asserted, showed how closely the world's economy is knit.

Discussing the visit to Paris, he said the beginning of agreement had been reached there. Relations between France and Germany are extremely important, the Chancellor observed.

"We hope to continue the Franco-German exchange of views here in the most frank manner during the return visit of the French statesmen to Berlin," he said.

The events of the last few weeks, he pointed out, show that the distress of one people cannot redound to the advantage of another.

German official circles expressed satisfaction at news that France and the United States have granted Great Britain a rediscount credit of $250,000,000.

The argument advanced here is that France knew that England would use this credit to freeze her short term credits in Germany. In other words, France's agreement to participate in the English discount credit is taken as an indication of willingness to help stabilize conditions in Germany at the same time that France is helping the Bank of England out of a tight place.

In high places here it is insisted that the sudden withdrawal of $150,000,000 in gold from the Bank of England during the last two weeks and the transfer of this sum to France was not, as alleged, Machiavellian work on the part of France but was caused by the panicky feeling of Spanish and South American capitalists.

Wealthy Spaniards had deposited their funds in London because they knew of former King Alfonso's close connection with Great Britain, and South Americans had become interested in London as a hoarding place through the visits to South America of Lord D'Abernon and the Prince of Wales.

Both these groups of investors, it is thought in some high places, became alarmed when they saw that at the seven-Power conference England had to confess inability to do anything for Germany beyond freezing short-term credits.

Paris then seemed to be the only safe place in the world, even though little or no interest could be paid on deposits.

That J. P. Morgan was a factor in fixing things between England and France is taken for granted here.

ARRESTED TRUSTIES TURNED BACK TO STATE PENITENTIARY

Four Convicts Released After Night in County Jail at Jefferson City.

JEFFERSON CITY, Aug. 4. —Four convicts today were back at their usual tasks at the state prison after spending a day in the Cole County jail. They werejailed by local police at the direction of Prosecuting Attorney Nike Sevier, who announced last week that all convicts found on the streets of the city or county highways unattended by guards would be arrested.

No attempt was made during the day yesterday by prison officials to claim the convicts, awaiting action from county authorities. The action came at 6 p. m. when Sevier called Warden Leslie Rudolph, informing him the county officials were ready to release the men.

Rudolph said this morning the routine of prison would not be interrupted, adding that convicts would be sent out to drive trucks between the farms and the prison as usual. Gov. Caulfield indicated there would be no change in policy on the part of the state administration.

RAIL SHARES RULE HEAVY IN APATHETIC STOCK TRADE

Carriers Drag the Market Lower—Some Losses of 1 to 5 Points at Finish but Changes Are Largely Limited to Fractions.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Aug. 4.—Securities markets were dragged a little lower by heaviness of the railroad issues in another apathetic day in Wall street today.

Stocks recovered a little in the afternoon, but gave way again in the final dealings. The commodity markets were also inclined to sag, and new lows were touched by wheat and cotton futures.

Changes Mainly Fractional.

Changes in stocks were largely limited to fractions, but there were some losses of one to five at the finish. Case and American Can, after declining one and one-half and two points to new lows, recovered. U. S. Steel and American Telephone regained about half of extreme losses of two and three points. International Harvester actually gained one and one-half. In the rails, Union Pacific, Atchison and New Haven lost about four to five points, and there were several declines of a point or so. Pere Marquette prior preferred, an infrequently traded issue, appeared nine points lower. Miscellaneous issues closing off a point or so included Bethlehem Steel, Liggett & Myers "B," American Tobacco "B," Johns Manville and Standard of California. The turnover was only about three-quarters of a million shares.

Foreign exchanges eased in spots, with sterling failing to maintain its recent improvement. Cable transfers ruled at $4.85 13-16, off about ¼c. The French franc was a shade lower, but the Dutch florin was steady, and the German mark was nominally quoted unchanged at 23.65c.

There were no specific developments in the railroad situation to account for the further heaviness in that group, but the feeling in Wall street that there will be some more reductions in railroad dividends before the year is out remains a heavy weight upon these issues.

Copper Price Cut.

News of banking difficulties in Mexico added to the somewhat bearish atmosphere, but Wall street discounted that situation when the country returned to a silver monetary basis several days ago.

There is still said to be a good prospect that Germany will take a substantial amount of American cotton and copper on special terms, although the copper producers here have not manifested any enthusiasm over disposing of any considerable amount of metal at current prices. The export price of metal was reduced to 8 cents today, bringing it in line with a domestic price of 7¾ cents. Some of the larger producers are staying completely out of the market at these unprofitable prices.

Raw steel production in the Youngstown area, which recently pushed up to 42 per cent of capacity, are now said to be back to 33 per cent, or only slightly better than the latest estimates for the industry at large, 32 per cent. The recent upturn at Youngstown, however, had not been interpreted as anything more than temporary.

PRICE OF EXPORT COPPER IS REDUCED 1-4C TO 8C

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Aug. 4.—The price of export copper was reduced a quarter of a cent a pound today to 8 cents, C. I. F. European base ports.

The reduction placed the foreign price on a parity with 7¾ cents, delivered in the domestic market, a level at which producers have been holding their metal.

Some custom smelters have been offering the metal in small quantities recently, however, at 7⅝ cents and it was reported in the trade that some copper from smelters was available yesterday at 7½ cents, although it was not learned whether any sales had been made at that figure.

General Cable Corp. has reduced bare copper wire prices to 9½ cents a pound.

IRREGULAR DECLINE IN THE BOND MARKET

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Aug. 4.—With foreign and railroad issue in the lead, the bond market declined irregularly today.

Chicago & Northwestern 4¾s of 1949 dropped about two points, New York, Chicago & St. Louis 4½s of 1978 reached a new low level at 60¼ and, although they rallied subsequently, they showed a sizable net loss. Directors of the latter railroad voted to omit the common and preferred dividends on July 30.

German 5½s of 1970 were one of the most active of the foreign obligations and they staged a demonstration of strength. The 7s of 1949, however, softened on a much smaller volume and dropped about one point. Fairly large losses appeared in Uruguayan 6s, Polish 7s, Austrian 7s and Belgian 7s. Brazilian 6½s of 1926-57 were strong and active.

United States Treasury 4¼s of 1947-52 and the new 3¼s of 1946-49 were active and steady, but other loans of the Federal Government were dull.

SMALL CHANGES IN COTTON AT THE CLOSE

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Aug. 4.—After reaching new low levels for the season during today's early trading under liquidation or additional selling promoted by favorable weather and crop advices, cotton recovered a good part of the loss on trade buying and covering.

Advances met increased offerings, however, and were not fully maintained, with the midafternoon market showing net losses of about 5 to 7 points. December contracts after selling off to 8.33c, or about 10 points net lower, rallied to 8.43c and were ruling around 8.38c at 2 o'clock.

Covering was a little more active in the last hour, and the close was steady, net unchanged to 3 points higher.

Futures closed steady; unchanged to 3 points higher: October 8.23-25c; December 8.46c; January 8.56c; March 8.79-80c; May 8.94-96c; July 9.06c. Spot steady; middling 8.15c.

Cotton opened steady today at a decline of 1 to 2 points.

There was over night selling orders and some further selling on reports of continued favorable weather in the South. There was no particular incentive in the Liverpool cables and while the initial offerings were fairly well absorbed selling increased on slight bulges. October declined to 8.16 and January to 8.48, making new low ground for the season and the market was barely steady before session had gone far with the active months showing net declines of 5 to 7 points.

A private crop report placed the condition at 73.8 and the indicated yield at 14,150,000 bales. Liverpool cables said there had been hedging combined with Continental and Bombay liquidation in that market. The Continent was reported a seller here during the early trading and there was some selling for Southern account.

The early decline extended to 8.11c for October and 8.45c for March contracts, making net losses of about 8 to 13 points on the general list, but offerings tapered off at these figures and the tone was steadier late in the morning on covering. At midday July was selling around 8.19c and January 8.50c, making rallies of about 5 to 9 points from the lowest. Another private crop report was issued placing the condition at 71 and the indicated yield at 14,218,000.

OIL PRODUCTION UP 13,162 BBLS., IT IS ESTIMATED

TULSA, Ok., Aug. 4.—The output of the prolific East Texas field soared last week to a daily average of nearly 600,000 barrels, resulting in an increase of 13,162 barrels in the United States' daily average crude oil production for the week, the Oil and Gas Journal reports.

Decreased production in other large areas failed to offset the East Texas increase, and the country's daily average output totaled 2,490,423 barrels, the highest in several weeks.

WHEAT AND CORN CLOSE LOWER ON LOCAL EXCHANGE

ST. LOUIS MERCHANTS' EXCHANGE, Aug. 4.—Wheat futures closed ⅝c to ⅞c net lower while corn was unchanged to ⅛c off at the finish.

It was the trade view that the dip in spot wheat prices was apparently caused by Liverpool quotations of 50 cents a bushel including all shipping charges. This price it was pointed out was the lowest recorded in Liverpool since 1592.

Selling was ascribed to decline shown by Liverpool upon its reopening after holiday. A dispatch credited the setback to offers of Southeastern countries.

Liverpool in one cable was 1⅛d down from Saturday. The close was 1½d net lower.

Winnipeg was off 1⅝ @ 1¾c.

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 4.—Plaquemines Parish authorities said they were without a clew today in their investigation of the lynching of a Negro by a band of masked white men. The Negro, Oscar Livingston, 22, arrested on a charge of attempted assault on a while girl, at Daloour, La., was taken from the jail at Pointe-a-La-Hache at noon Sunday.

CHINESE FLOOD RECEDING; DEATH TOLL 700 TO 1200

Refugees Big Problem in Hankow; Rice Famine in Prospect Next Winter.

By the Associated Press.

HANKOW, China, Aug. 4.—Although flood waters are receding slightly, Hankow's modern buildings still resemble brick and stone islands rising in a sea. The wide expanse of muddy water is hardly broken by the thatched roofs of what had been villages.

The Yangtze and Han rivers overflowed as a result of fortnight of continuous rains. A tally of the death toll still is lacking, although estimates range from 700 to 1200 in the cities of Hankow, Wuchang and Hanyang.

Thousands of refugees give Hankow the problem of feeding the homeless in addition to tending the city's dikes and finding rations for its own populace. Wuhu, like Hankow, is crowded with refugees. Government leaders realize that the disaster is a major national calamity, especially regarding the prospect of a rice famine next winter. The flooded areas constitute the richest rice-growing region of China.

MAIL ORDER SUITOR HELD

Married Man Accused by Illinois Woman of Taking $12.

Following complaint by Miss Goldie Powers, Aurora, Ill., that she was robbed of $12 by a man who induced her to come to St. Louis on a promise of matrimony, police last night arrested a married man whom she identified.

Miss Powers said she had corresponded with the man through a "matrimonial club," and had come to St. Louis last Sunday at his request. The man took her to a room on South Thirty-ninth street, she said, and subsequently took $12 from her purse. The suspect, held for Federal authorities, denied the charge.

Scottish Mine Scale $1.92.

GLASGOW, Scotuand, Aug. 4.—After months of negotiations, coal mine owners and miners' representatives of Scotland yesterday reached an agreement by which the miners are granted a minimum daily wage of 8 shillings ($1.92) and a 7½-hour working day.

Soldier Slain; Another Sought.

PAXTON, Ill., Aug. 4.—Private Earl B. Frost, 25 years old, of Chanute Field, is sought by Ford County authorities in connection with the death of George Yeater, another private. Frost, State's Attorney Claude Swanson declared, inflicted fatal injuries on Yeater with an automobile crank handle during a drunken brawl in a country farm lane three miles west of here last night. Frost escaped. Swanson said, in an automobile belonging to another soldier, Charles Sherwood. Frost is from Texarkana, Tex. Yeater was from Walta, Mont.

He has his pet dog in buggy with him. The baby, now more than a year old, has never been photographed except in snapshots made by the flying Colonel himself. Lindy Jr. will remain at the Maine estate while his parents make their aerial trip to Orient, they having bid him good-by the day this picture was taken.

If you ask my OPINION

By Martha Carr

Letters intended for this column must be addressed to Martha Carr at the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. Mrs. Carr will answer all questions of general interest but, of course, cannot give advice on matters of a purely legal or medical nature. Those who do not care to have their letters published may enclose an addressed and stamped envelope for a personal reply.

DEAR MRS. CARR: About six months ago I fell in love with a boy who had been going with another girl for two years. They had "fallen out." Suddenly we both realized that he still cared for the other girl, so by mutual consent we remained good friends, but he went back to her. I have been going with other boys. He knows I still love him and often comes to me with his troubles and secrets. He is perfectly honest about it, and while we hate to give up our friendship we think perhaps it is best on my account. He is going away and wants me to correspond with him. Will it be proper to do this? I know your advice will be good and so thank you in advance.

WAITING AND HOPING.

I would say that you had a rather thankless task. Taking a man on the "rebound" when he is "at outs" with somebody generally is just that. He is more than likely to bound back with the change of the weather. How would you like to be engaged and in love with a boy and have him take his "troubles and secrets" to someone else? This boy is like some others, he wants to "eat his cake and keep it too." When he goes away let him do without your valuable counsel and friendship for a while. That is best for you and he may have a chance to find out how much he misses you—or that he can do without at least one of you; which, since he can really have only one of you, may stiffen his backbone a little.

• • •

DEAR MRS. CARR: For the past several weeks your column has been the most important part of the paper to me, and now I want to know what to do in rather puzzling circumstances.

For some time I've been writing a young man who travels away from here, who has sent me from time to time little remembrances. I knew that he met many girls and have never considered him really anything but a friend. He has often written that I was the only girl he cared about and I did enjoy those weekly letters that came whether I wrote or not.

Two months ago I married. Although this friend and I never mentioned marriage and I do not suppose I have any responsibility exactly in the matter, I have never told him I was engaged, nor does he know that I am married. Recently I received a letter from him. Shall I ignore the letter or write him that I am married?

My husband is extremely jealous and I do not want another letter to come as it would mean an argument. I feel rather foolish about the other as I wrote him for eight months, never giving him a hint about my engagement. Gratefully,

"MARIANNA."

Perhaps you were not under any grave obligation to discontinue a friendly correspondence, since it was only friendly, but if you really look yourself in the eye, you know that you have been dodging. Why didn't you send him an invitation, an announcement, or better still, a note saying you were about to be married? The least you can do is write him a straightforward note saying that you are married and hope to have him meet your husband (if you do). So long as he did not really commit himself you have an alibi. But I can't say that you have really been sporting.

• • •

DEAR MRS. CARR: I am one of those trusting, "nice, old-fashioned girls," and my home was in Northern Illinois. It was a small town where girls are not trained in the professions and when through school either teach or marry. I was needed at home and worked there and expected to marry the boy I'd known all my life. Then my father was killed in an auto accident and everything was changed. Mother and I were taken care of financially but came to St. Louis to be near a married sister. We both wished to be some place where we could work and I didn't want to feel I was dependent upon just marrying.

I took a comptometer course, but with the depression many experienced ones were out of work. I am 23 years old. I would like your suggestion on a line of work I could get into now. I don't care to run around much. I have thought of Civil Service, but, of course, it takes time to get in.

B. C.

Civil service is fine when you get into it. Of course, it takes time; but doesn't everything? It would be impossible for me to tell you anything you could step into easily, especially as I haven't the least idea what you are fitted for outside of the comptometer work. If you have a line, it seems to me the most sensible thing is to stick to it, at least until you fit yourself for something else. All you can do (like everybody else) is to make a round every day where comptometer people are needed and look for an opening. At this time it is particularly necessary to keep hard after a job. No one can hand you one.

• • •

DEAR MRS. CARR: I am a young high school student. I have art ability above the average (at least judged by those in my classes). My highest ambition is to become a commercial artist and my parents can and will provide me with sufficient training, and they are interested in my talent.

But people think I am silly and warn me against it. They say it is too long and hard a training and that I'll never get a position without a "pull." I even hear this from people who have taken up art, but are not prominent. Should I listen to them, or take up a practical subject? Or should I continue my ambition?

"PUZZLED."

Commercial art is a good field and a paying field, but not for those who have not sufficient talent, who are unwilling to work hard and who believe that "pull" is necessary to success. I am not surprised that these suggestions come from persons who are not "prominent," in other words have been unsuccessful. They have probably lacked the prime requisites, talent and the capacity to work, and it is characteristic of that type to talk about "pull."

If you can find a sincere judge among your friends, try to find out whether or not you have the ability. Perhaps someone at the Washington University Art School will tell you honestly. Or go to someone who is doing the work and ask their candid opinion, good or bad. There is not a particle of use in going on if you lack talent and taste for this work.

• • •

DEAR MRS. CARR: Your advice is splendid and so impersonal; as of course it should be. To make my request short, I will say that I am deeply in love with a married woman older than myself. She is only six or seven years younger than her husband, but looks many years younger. Mrs. Carr, she is so interesting, so cultured, so well-read and traveled, that although she is lovely looking, too, it is her allround experience that makes her attractive.

I love her so that a day without hearing her voice is lost and she inspires me to great things, so much so that compared with her the girls I know seem shallow and trivial and silly. I am sure she doesn't guess my love, although I just can't date anyone anymore. I know she likes me, too. Don't tell me that I must give up seeing her. Must I?

UNHAPPY LOVER.

If I knew your age I could tell better just what I might say to console you. Very young men have been known to fall desperately in love with school teachers and older married women—so desperate, in fact, it has been that they have talked about dying and the river. But not one of them ever jumped in. And they did recover, and they did fall in love with a young girl, and they did live a healthy, normal life forever after.

But if you are an older man, the matter is more serious. Even if she is the right sort of woman, and is not just stringing you on, purely for the love of conquest and amusement, I don't see what you can hope from the situation. You certainly do not want to involve her in any unhappiness on your account, if you care for her.

• • •

MY DEAR MARTHA CARR: The boy I am in love with is one year older than I am. He seems to think I must, and will, take orders from him, although I am not engaged to him and have no intention of engaging myself to anyone for several years. He doesn't want me to go out with other fellows and says I must not go away this summer "or else—" I don't quite know what he means by that. I'm a carefree girl and I don't like this worry over his trying to handle my affairs.

He says he doesn't intend to go with other girls. I feel that I'm too young to enter that sort of agreement.

MARGE.

This young fellow has a whole lot to learn. And you might as well be the one to teach him as anyone else. If you don't let him see now that his bullying (that is what it amounts to) and threatening ways will not serve him, some day some man will come along and (to use an inelegant but perfectly expressive phrase) "knock his block off." So you may save him and perhaps that would be noble work.

Just thank your stars that you have the good sense and the insight to keep from tying yourself up in this foolish way. Go away and let the "or else" develop as it will. If he is worth while, and cares for you, he will probably fly in a rage, dash madly about with other girls, maybe "go to the dogs" awhile and when you get back be so glad to see you he will have forgotten his threats. If he pouts then, be sweet but let him see it doesn't worry you.

• • •

DEAR MRS. CARR: I don't know how to swim and most of my friends do swim. Do you know any place I could learn?

AGNES MAUD.

Why not have your young friends teach you? That is the way most boys and girls learn. Or perhaps go down to the Y. W. C. A.

MARY FAITH

By BEATRICE BURTON

CHAPTER THREE.

KIM and his mother lived on the ground floor of an old-fashioned apartment in Wilton street.

Mary Faith always enjoyed her visits there because it was Kim's home; but it was a depressing sort of place.

The living room was crowded with upholstered furniture. All of the chairs had little lace doilies on their backs. A big brown crock filled with pampas grass stood in front of the fireplace. On a shelf above it stood a cupid clock made of silver gilt. The cupid was much too fat, and he smirked.

Over the whole flat hung the smell of dusty carpets, coffee and meals cooked in grease long ago.

Mrs. Farrell was sitting beside the window, reading the evening paper, when Mary Faith and Kim walked into the room at fifteen minutes after seven. She glanced up at the cupid and Mary Faith saw that she had been crying.

"I had dinner ready forty-five minutes ago," she said, getting slowly to her feet. "I made a cheese souffle. It's ruined by this time, but if you don't care I'm sure I don't. . . Would you like to put your things in my room, Mary Faith?"

Mary Faith followed her down the dark narrow hall to her bedroom. She took off her hat and coat and smoothed her hair back from her forehead.

Mrs. Farrell stood watching her for a second or two with her reddened eyes. Then she muttered something about the souffle and went hurrying out of the room. She bumped against the door as she went. She was the awkward kind of stout woman who is always bumping into doors or dropping dishes.

Mary Faith hurried after her.

"Can't I help you with dinner?" she asked. "You know what a treat it is to me to help around a kitchen."

• • •

SHE had always had a mortal longing for a kitchen of her own. A bright new little kitchen, all colored tiles and shiny pans and white dotted curtains with sunshine and wind coming through them.

"You know I learned quite a lot about cooking when I took that course at the Business Woman's Club last winter," she went on, looking round for an apron. "What can I do to help?"

Kim's mother didn't answer her question. A smile flickered in her plump face for an instant. A tight-lipped smile.

"I guess you didn't learn to keep a souffle from going to nothing an hour after it was made, did you?" she asked as she pulled a baking dish from the oven of the gas range. "Just look at that thing!"

The souffle lay flat as a pancake in the bottom of the dish. It was plain to see that all the life and soul had gone out of it.

"It's only fit to be thrown out," she said. "There are eggs in the icebox. How would you like to fry some the way you learned to fry them at your wonderful woman's club last winter? There's dripping in that bowl on the stove and the frying pan's hanging under the sink."

She began to scrape souffle into a bowl on the drain board.

"This is the sort of thing you'll have to learn to expect when you're married to Kimberley," she said presently. "Meals spoiled because he's not here to eat them on time! Whole dinners put away untouched sometimes because he doesn't show up at all! But I suppose I shouldn't complain, because it's all my fault. I've spoiled him all his life. I've made a rod for my own back!"

There was bitterness in her voice and in her face. Bitterness that narrowed her eyes and drew down the corners of her mouth. And yet it was apparent that she had once been very handsome. There was still a kind of beauty in her straight features and the poise of her head with its bright brown hair.

• • •

"WHAT time did he get to your place tonight?" she asked suddenly.

"Around seven."

Mary Faith shook her head.

She had a fine contempt for women who did not trust the men they loved—women like Mrs. Dann Bassett whse husband was shipping clerk at Nesbit's . . . Dan Bassett never looked twice at any of the girls who worked in the building, but Mrs. Bassett gave him no peace. She was always popping in unexpectedly to see what he was doing and she kept the telephone wire hot on the nights when he worked late.

"I'll be no Mrs. Dan Bassett," thought Mary Faith firmly.

"I would not want Kim to think I didn't trust him, Mrs. Farrell," she said. "And that's just what he would think if I started to cross-question him about things like that. I know he wants to marry me, and that's enough for me."

SYNOPSIS.

Mary Faith, a young and pretty orphan, has long been engaged to Kimberly Farrell, a handsome youth who has just finished law school. They set the date for their marriage, and Mary Faith notifies the wealthy Mark Nesbit, by whom she is employed as secretary, that she is leaving. Mary Faith goes home to find an invitation to dinner from Kimberly's mother, awaiting her.

"I don't know why he wants to get married anyway," Kim's mother went on.

"Did you ask him where he had been until that time?" Kim's mother was lighting the gas ring under the coffee pot now.

"He said he had been delayed at the office."

"Did you see him last Sunday?" Mrs. Farrell asked next.

"I saw him last Sunday night. He spent the whole evening with me," said Mary Faith, turning to look at her with puzzled eyes. What was Kim's mother getting at anyway, she wondered.

"Well, he was gone all day, Mary Faith. He got up early in the morning and drove the car out of the yard before I was really awake. Why don't you ask him where he was all day and who was with him?—I'm only his mother, of course; but you have a right to know what he does with his time."

MRS. FARRELL blew out the match she held and tossed it under the stove where there were a dozen or so burnt matches. It flared up and she set her foot on it.

"He hasn't any business wanting to marry you or any other girl just yet!" she said violently. "He owes me a little comfort. Here we are, struggling to get along on what he makes down in that law office—and lo and behold! he waltzes in and says he's going to get married in two weeks! On what, I'd like to know! On what?"

"On his salary," Mary Faith replied, breaking eggs into the sizzling pan. "Sixty dollars a week is plenty of money for three people to live on comfortably. You and I can do every bit of the work around in this flat. We won't even send the laundry out"——

"I don't know why he wants to get married anyway," Kim's mother went on, paying no attention to her. "I'm sure I don't."

"Everybody wants to get married sooner or later, I suppose," Mary Faith spoke as gently as she could.

"You want to, you mean!" Mrs. Farrell turned on her suddenly, her plump face full of color. "Kimberley doesn't want to get married. He knows he isn't making enough money to keep up two homes and he knows I won't be happy when he brings you here to mine. Besides that, he's running around"—

She stopped talking as Kim pushed the door open and stepped into the kitchen. He had changed his coat for a brown velveteen smoking jacket and a pipe was gripped between his teeth.

"What's all the row about?" he asked mildly. "And how about a little chow for a hungry man instead of all this talk?"

His mother took a pitcher of cream from the top of the icebox and thrust it into Mary Faith's hands.

"Put that on the table. I'll watch the eggs, Mary Faith. And pour the water. The pitcher's on the sideboard."

Mary Faith carried the pitcher into the dining room where a drop light with a yellow glass shade hung over the table. She set it down on a German silver tray that was flanked by a cut-glass vinegar cruet and a bottle of meat sauce.

"People can't call themselves poor who live as comfortably as this," she thought, glancing around the room. "Sixty dollars a week is a lot of money, if it's properly handled."

A German silver pitcher of water stood on the sideboard. When she picked it up she saw that it left a wet white ring on the polished wood. There were other faint white rings near it. No one could call Kim's mother a careful housekeeper, she found herself thinking as she began to fill the water glasses.

Suddenly there was a crash and a loud scream from the kitchen. After that there was a second of dead silence. And then Kim's voice calling her: "Mary Faith! Come here—hurry!"

HEALTH

Brief articles prepared by experts. Edited by Dr. Iago Galdston, for the New York Academy of Medicine.

Chronic Constipation

IN people otherwise normal, chronic constipation can be cured without medication of any kind, by diet, abundant fluid intake and by acquiring the proper habit. For constipation is mostly a bad habit.

The constipation sufferer should not take cathartics nor enemas. Let him bide his time and allow the intestines to establish a normal cycle of action.

The diet should consist of plenty of food that contains "roughage." Fruit should be generously added.

Liberal quantities of water must be taken, and at least one glass before retiring and before breakfast.

Patients should choose a time either before or after breakfast, say five or 10 minutes, and daily at this time they should try to have a stool movement whether there is any desire or not, however, remaining no longer than five minutes.

Even if there is no movement at first for three or four days, they should not take cathartics. If absolutely necessary, a mineral oil or an enema may be taken.

It should take about three weeks to acquire the habit of a regular bowel movement.

It is said that the irascible Ben Jonson, after having tried for an inordinately long time to make a certain lady understand the point of his argument, finally turned upon her and bellowed, "Madame, I can only present to you the facts, I cannot endow you with the intelligence to understand them."

In the same spirit, many a physician could say to this patient: "Sir, or Madame, I can only advise you on how to regain your health. I cannot endow you with the required will power."

In many an illness the remedy ultimately lies with the patient and not with the physician. The physician might indicate what to do and how to do it, but the action must come from the patient.

Talks to PARENTS

By Alice Judson Peale

A Happy Family

RECENTLY I had occasion to see a family reunion between a father and mother and their two children, aged six and two.

They had been in the country for a few weeks when their parents came to visit them.

Their greetings were eager and affectionate, but not terribly excited. They were happy, but not hysterical with joy.

After the first few minutes the six-year-old proposed a game of hide-and-seek, a game in which the baby was able to join by virtue of being tucked under her father's arm, where she looked a good deal like a cherub in flight.

After hide-and-seek they played ball, and then they wandered over the fields and picked flowers for father and mother to take back to the city.

During all the afternoon these children were serene, busy and happy. There was no uncomfortable rivalry between them. Big sister was protective with the baby as always and the baby apparently merely regarded the afternoon as an exceptionally fine frolic. They kissed goodby cheerfully and waved farewell with smiling eyes.

That family looks like a success. Both children, it is evident, feel quite secure in their parents' love. Even being away from them does not shake their faith that all is well in their world. Reunited, they do not lose their poise.

Only a family united in reciprocal affection can produce such an attitude. This one essential being right, children can accept all sorts of changes with happiness and equanimity. Lacking it, every change is apt to be accompanied by an inner fear which produces all sorts of difficulties in the child's relation to play and learning and routine demands.

Must Be Clean.

Be certain that the hardwood floors are perfectly clean before either waxing or shellacing them. If all stains are not removed they will show up very plainly under the polished surface.

To extract honey from the comb, put it in an earthen jar, crush and heat it. The wax can then be collected and strained from it when it is cooled.

Well-ripened fruit requires less sugar when making pies, puddings, etc.

When using canned fruit for a mousse be careful to drain practically all the juice from it.

THE MURDER OF THE CHOIR SINGER

By Anthony Abbot

HAVING told this much, Bessie Struber fell back in her chair and buried her face in her arm, sobbing pitifully.

Thatcher Colt stood up and reached for his pipe. He solemnly filled the bowl with his execrable tobacco, and, with unshaking hands, lit the match. Only his eyes looking at me above that little patch of orange flame showed the tense excitement he was concealing. The scratch of my pencil on my notebook had ceased, and we heard nothing except the sobs of Bessie Struber.

Not until five minutes had passed did Thatcher Colt suggest that she go on with her story.

"I want to tell you everything," she said in her husky voice. "I think when Beazeley died that I fainted, and it was much more horrible when I came to and found myself lying there on the floor. Mr. Colt, it was a kind of resurrection from the dead. I felt that they, too, must get up from the floor just as I did. Then came a revulsion, a feeling of such awful horror that I flew to the telephone and called Gerald Curtainwood. I told him something dreadful had happened. He came right over."

"Alone?" asked Thatcher Colt.

"Alone. I led him up into that room, and for a moment I thought that he, too, would faint. Then he took me downstairs, and I told him what had happened, exactly as I told you. While we were talking the door-bell rang. We were both terrified at this. We thought, perhaps, it was the watchman, or that someone had heard me scream or heard the shots, and had called the police. If we were found here who would believe our story? We crept down the hallway and through the glass we saw that it was Mrs. Beazeley, muffled in an old coat, and her brother, Paddy. We had no notion how they had come here, but we learned later that Gerald's wife had overheard our telephone conversation and had talked to Mrs. Beazeley, and she had decided to follow her brother and see for herself what had happened. So there we were —the four of us, with the two dead bodies lying on the floor. Mrs. Beazeley knelt down beside the body of her husband and took his watch and his ring, and that was how the blood stains got on her coat.

"THEN Gerald Curtainwood took charge. He said that it was bad enough for the public to know that Doctor Beazeley and Mrs. Saunders had been killed, that it would be worse when they found out what she had been to him, but that the truth as I had witnessed it, the fiendishness of the crime, and its long and careful preparation, were all so dreadful that it would be much better for it not to come out. If any of us were found here in the murder house, we would be suspected by the police. To clear ourselves we would have to tell the truth, and that, he said, must never be.

"It was Gerald who found the boat drawn up to the open window. He knew its purpose. He saw what had been intended, and it was he who put that plan into execution, against all of Mrs. Beazeley's protests. He and Paddy carried those bodies down, picked up the oil cloth, cleaned the knife, dragged the boat down to the water's edge, put the bodies in and set them drifting. We worked for an hour getting everything straight, even to dropping the tools overboard. One of the most awful parts of it was when Evelyn's pet cat jumped into the boat just at the last minute—Gerald was shoving off and it was too late to pull it back. Then the four of us took an oath together that we would never tell. They were protecting me with that oath, for I was guilty. But we did not count on being found out as you have found us out, Mr. Colt. That's all."

Her lustrous eyes looked at him in weariness and fear; her fingers fluttered in the gloom, strange, birdlike gestures.

"What are you going to do to me, Mr. Colt?"

Colt went over to her and took her cold, damp hands in his.

"My dear child," he said, "you have done a fine and noble thing in telling me the truth. It would have been much better all around if the police had been told the simple truth in the beginning. That's the curse of all such matters, where innocent and frightened people do not attribute common sense to the police, and all too often with good reason.

"Now," he said, "you will have to realize that this is a city of law and order and that you will have to leave this matter in my hands."

• • •

SITTING across from each other, in the room where murder had been done, Merle Dougherty, District Attorney of New York City, and Thatcher Colt, Police Commissioner, faced the problem.

"Thatcher," said Dougherty, "I still don't see how you worked it out."

"By common sense and straight police work," returned Colt. "Naturally, when I saw the bodies, I had three possibilities confronting me —suicide compact, murder by some person who felt betrayed, or the theory that one had slain the other and then been killed by a third person. In computing the possibilities, those three I definitely considered. Then we began assembling the facts as best we could. It was the photograph of Bessie Struber that first made me consider her seriously. I had Lengel put a man on her trail. He had a stroke of luck, in her insurance agent, who told him she had an insurance policy on a small child. He learned that the child was in a home. Of course he went there at once and demanded the records. From those he ascertained that the child was born in a hospital at Norfolk; the names were changed but the identities were clear to the detective. The Norfolk police co-operated and from the nurse down there we got the poison story. Now, when I had Bessie Struber's finger prints in that closet, and on the hymn-rack, and on the jar of paste, I felt sure that she knew the truth. It was hard to tear it from her, and I had to be pretty brutal, I am sorry to say."

Dougherty sighed.

"You know, Thatcher," he began, "I hadn't really made up my mind to indict Mrs. Beazeley. I was only pretending. I had an object. You never function at concert-pitch unless you are showing me how wrong I am."

"In the meantime," said Colt, "what about Bessie Struber?"

"She doesn't have to worry much," reasoned Dougherty. "We simply indict her for manslaughter, she pleads self-defense, I accept the plea, and it's all over."

"That won't do."

"Why not?"

"Bessie Struber's kid has started life under enough handicap already. She has the money to go to Europe. Why put her through a perfectly silly and useless trial? Its only purpose would be to satisfy public curiosity."

"And show people that our laws must be enforced," reminded Dougherty.

"True enough. But they won't believe that anyhow. And why fasten a stigma on that pretty little boy who is at this moment in his mother's arms? Why not keep her confession a part of the secret archives—and let her go?"

Dougherty had listened to that last plea, a cigar smoldering in the left corner of his mouth, his face set in frank disapproval.

"Colt," he declared, "this is the hottest spell New York has known in any June since the Weather Bureau was started. I have worked myself into a lather over this case. I have lost sleep, I have lost my vacation, and I have pretty near lost my temper. But one thing District Attorney Dougherty has never lost yet. That's his sense of decency and fair play."

"Now, Dougherty," protested Colt, "don't make a political speech."

"No," consented Dougherty, rising. "All I meant to say was that I agree with you. The Beazeley-Saunders murders will never be solved. I should have listened to you in the first place."

And Dougherty and Thatcher Colt together ascended the stairs of the house with the red door.

DAILY STORY FOR CHILDREN

By Mary Graham Bonner

Butter and Eggs

JOHN and Peggy and the Little Black Clock walked along the field and then down along a rusty road where automobiles never came.

Along the side of the road were some tall plants with many little bright flowers. Their small leaves looked more like blades of grass, and their tall stems were almost half covered with yellow flowers tipped with orange.

It was fortunate that the Clock's magic allowed John and Peggy to understand all sorts of members in nature's family, for they began whispering in their delicate flower voices.

"Yes," urged the Little Black Clock, "do tell my friends John and Peggy about yourselves—first telling them your family name."

"We are called Butter-and-Eggs," they said. And the children noticed that the yellow of their flowers was the very color of butter and of eggs when they are scrambled.

"But we have other names," they continued. "Sometimes we are called Yellow Toadflax, sometimes Flaxweed.

"We are not in the least fussy and snobbish. There are some flowers who must have care and attention.

"It is not their fault. They feel better when they are petted, when they are g en plenty of fresh water and when the earth is dug around them to make it easier for them to grow. And there are other flowers who like hot-houses.

"But we do not care about any fussing at all. We will grow where many other flowers will not grow—along dusty roads and in old fields.

"But we have traveled, oh yes, indeed! Shall we tell you about it?"

"Please," urged Peggy.

Tomorrow—"Asia, Europe, America."
